BRITAIN'S SETTLEMENT WITH INDIA.

WHAT NON-EXTREMISTS WOULD ACCEPT.

DETAILS OF SOME OBSTACLES IN THE WAY.

The British Government has certainly succeeded in creating the impression that it is prepared to go far beyond the proposals of the Simon Report in the direction of giving India immediately full control over her own affairs—provided, that is, that a certain quantity of agreement among the representatives of various Indian interests is forthcoming at the Conference. It seems probable (says a correspondent of the Manchester Guardian) that the formula Dominion status, with temporary safeguards will be used. What the Indian Moderate means by this phrase is that the Government of India shall be responsible to, and removable by, an elected Central Legislature, while foreign affairs and relations with Indian States are left for the present to be conducted by the Viceroy who will also control the Army. The money for the maintenance of the army would not be voted yearly by the Legislature. Instead, an annual allowance would be agreed upon for a term of years. For any excess over that allowance or for a renewal of the agreement the sanction of the Legislature would be required.

An Acceptable Arrangement.

There can be little doubt that the British Cabinet, if it chose, could reach an agreement on these lines with Moderate India, including the experienced Brahmin statesmen like Mr. Srinivasa Sastri, Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru, and Sir C. P. Ramaswami Iyer. The aged Brahmin orator Pandit Malaviya would also give his assent, and so, too, might that highly intelligent but rather cynical Brahmin gentleman Pandit Motilal Nehru, the most influential of the Congress leaders. The non-Brahmins of Madras and the Deccan would gladly come in, and with them the business men of Bombay, the moderate Sikhs, and most of the well-known Mohammedan leaders. Mr. Gandhi and Mr. Jawaharlal Nehru, the Mahatma and the doctrinaire revolutionary, would both agree to retire into the background for a year or two. Bengal and its leaders would continue to demand independence, but their voices would not carry great weight with the rest of India. Fanatic nationalists and political adventurers would be ill-pleased with the settlement and would seek to excite the students, the middle-class unemployed, and other malcontent elements which usually dominate the National Congress into making larger demands connected with the repudiation of debt and kindred matters; but at the first Congress and the first general election the prestige of the elder statesmen would probably prevail, provided that Mr. Gandhi's neutrality was secured.

Some Objections.

Since, then, our sympathies and the sympathy of the whole world must be with India's desire for self-government, the burden of proving our case rests heavily on those of us who urge objections to a settlement on these lines. Let us, then, state our case, not from any desire to make mischief but in the hopes that full discussion may prove useful.

Well, there are a number of objections to a settlement on these lines. They can all be suggested by the questions: Would it work? Would it not merely lead us into a situation more embarrassing and more dangerous than that from which we are anxious to escape?

Religious Jealousies.

To begin with, it must be remembered that, though Moslem, Hindu, and Sikh all agree that the Government of India should be made responsible to an Indian Legislature, they have very different ideas as to the manner in which that Legislature should be composed and as to the extent of its right to enforce its will against the will of the minority community. Even if the representatives of the Hindus, Moslems, and Sikhs should come to an agreement on these questions, there is no certainty, in fact, hardly the slightest probability, that their agreement would allay the mutual jealousies of the rival communities. There is no man in India and no organisation in a position to make an agreement that would effectively bind any one of these communities. Each of these communities will at first be very suspicious of and very ready to kick against the authority of any Legislature which is the creature of a Legislature in which a rival community has the majority. If Indians show any sense of citizenship this tendency should diminish with experience. But at first it will undoubtedly be exceedingly strong, and if the Central and Provincial Executives are both composed in such a way as to be subservient to communal parties, then there will be serious danger of friction intense enough to flare up into civil war.

If the mutual suspicions of Hindus, Moslems, and Sikhs could be made to vanish, all the other difficulties in the way of self-government would lose three-quarters of their substance. But it is surely plain that such mutual suspicions, rooted in history between communities permanently separated by the prohibition of intermarriage, cannot be suddenly eradicated or greatly mitigated by any formula agreement. The memory of wrongs done, and suffered in the past can only be erased by the experience of years of fair and just dealing. When the communal majorities in the new Provincial Legislatures have satisfied the communal minorities that they will give fair play to all, then there will be no danger in making the Central Executive responsible to the Central Legislature.

Foreign Relations.

The next question to consider is whether the Viceroy can effectively conduct India's foreign relations while India's domestic policy is controlled by him. The answer is surely "No." Foreign relations depend upon domestic policy. Suppose Japan complains of an Indian tariff. Suppose Indian industrialists take a strong line in dealing with Communist propaganda in India and Russia decides to champion the Communist cause. Suppose Afghanistan takes up the grievances of Indian Moslems. Suppose the Indian Legislature reserves coastal shipping for Indian ships and Great Britain questions the fairness of the compensation allowed to vested interests. How can the Viceroy be responsible for conducting negotiations unless he has a voice in shaping the policy?

Similarly in regard to relations with Indian States. The action or inaction of the Cabinet of "British" India closely concerns the States—e.g., they may be vitally affected by the tariffs imposed by the British Indian Legislature or by the failure of the British Indian police to check the organisation of revolution on their frontiers. How can they be expected to respect the authority of a Viceroy who tells them that he can merely pass on their complaints to a Cabinet in which he may have no influence? In short, the Executive which controls the domestic affairs of British India must also be responsible for its relations with foreign countries and with Indian States. There is no very strong reason, if we exclude questions arising from the employment of British troops, why a Cabinet responsible to the Indian Legislature might not conduct India's relations with foreign countries. But if British India's relations with the Indian States were immediately put in the hands of a Cabinet responsible to the Indian Legislature the ideas and interests of democracy and autocracy would be found incompatible, and civil war would be a probable result.

The Question of the Army.

The last great question concerns the retention of British troops in a self-governing India and the control of the Indian army in a self-governing India either by the Viceroy or by an Indian Cabinet responsible to the Legislature. If there was no question of friction between Moslem, Sikh, and Hindu, and if we could be fairly sure of good relations between a self-governing British India and the Indian States, then either arrangement, though anomalous, might be from our point of view acceptable. We should be glad enough to hire out an army to defend India from any external enemy. But, of course, if there were no question of friction between Hindu, Moslem, and Sikh India would be in no need of foreign troops or foreign officers in control of Indian troops. If the North-west Frontier is a permanent menace, that is not chiefly because of the war-like nature of the tribes dwelling beyond it. After all, the numbers of the Frontier tribes are limited. Afghanistan itself is a thinly populated country, and not all its inhabitants are so very formidable. Beyond Afghanistan Central Asia no longer teems with hordes of fighting men. In regard to munitions, communications, science, technical skill, and industrial power the advantage is all on the Indian side of the frontier. What India has to fear, what has always been her undoing in the past, is the fact that the foreign invader can so easily draw support from malcontent elements within her frontiers. That makes it extremely unsafe for Great Britain to lend an army to a self-governing India, and extremely unwise for India to experiment in self-government supported by a foreign army.

Military Difficulties.

For so long as we maintain an army in India or control the Indian Army every malcontent party in India can and will maintain that the Indian Government is merely the British Raj camouflaged and that the Ministers of the day are tools in the hands of British masters. The tactics of the malcontents will be to compel the Indian Cabinet to use British troops against Indian mobs, and the fanatic nationalist, the fanatic Moslem, and the fanatic Sikh will feel that the presence of the foreign army supporting the Government justifies them in inviting a foreign invader. Again, circumstances might easily arise in which our troops would be compelled to choose between two Governments, each of them claiming to be legitimate; or a Sikh prince, fearful lest the malcontent educated class among his subjects should be supported by the educated class in control of the Government of India, might put himself at the head of all that is most fanatical in the Sikh nation and call for the support of the Sikh element in the army. It is quite clear that in such a crisis a British foreign India so far from serving to guarantee the safety of India would be likely to excite and aggravate internal disorder. Further, the British troops and officers might easily find themselves in an exceedingly dangerous position. They could not feel sure of the goodwill of the civil population, of the Indian soldier, or of the civil administration. Now any lack of mutual confidence between the civil administration and the army must in India have the efficiency of both, and, besides, it is necessary to remember that India is not Egypt. Warships sent to Bombay, Karachi, or Calcutta will not suffice to extricate an army which has got into trouble round Peshawar or Lahore. Those who are asked to leave British troops or British officers in such a situation should first count well the cost, and consider whether there is no foreign Power which might be inclined to accept such an invitation to intrigue against us in India.

"Saving Face."

But if on consideration we agree that self-defence and full self-government should go hand in hand, then by all means let us hasten to put India in a position to defend herself. And for the interval before full self-government can come perhaps we can devise some form of guarantee to satisfy India that the policy of the Indian Government shall not be unfairly deflected to favour British interests. It is at these two points that an advance beyond the Simon scheme seems to be practicable. As to India's right to self-defence, she will maintain that best not by insisting on a misleading formula, nor by a stubborn refusal to admit the truth, but by displaying the wise and patient courage that is required to face ugly obstacles and to settle down to the tedious task of clearing them out of the way.

"GIRLS! GO BACK HOME!"

MRS. EDISON ON WORK MEN SHOULD DO.

Mrs. Thomas A. Edison, the wife of the inventor, has broadcast a wireless appeal to American women to go back home.

She blames the feverish restlessness of America on its young women, who have left their homes and forgotten their domestic arts in a wage-earning scramble with men.

American men are less and less able to count on the comfort of a restful home, and "unless the women of America make a decided effort to return to the business of home-making, the most vital institution of the country is threatened. The woman who doesn't want to make a home is undermining the nation."

Mrs. Edison sees no reason why any woman should want to use her talents and her education outside the home, where there is ample scope for intelligence and originality. A good home-maker must have executive ability and be a good purchasing agent, an economist, something of a chemist, to supervise the diet of her family, and a gracious hostess.

She also should be versed in music, art and literature to have a proper background, and to be able to entertain herself, her husband and her friends.

"Deep down in her heart," said motherly Mrs. Edison to the thousands of working spinsters listening to their loud-speakers, "every woman wants a home, and most women want children."

Then one of the spinsters answered back.

She is Miss Martha L. Conmole, a successful and hard-working Chicago barrister, and what she wants to know is, where are the homes women should return to?

Women who work, says Miss Conmole, do so because they have been "kicked out of their homes."

"For nearly every woman who is working," she told Mrs. Edison, "there is some man—father, husband, son, brother—who has fallen down on the job of providing her support. The vast majority of women wouldn't quit the ease of having somebody look after them if they didn't have to."

All of which raises two questions: Does the average modern woman work because she likes it, or because she must? And, of the home workers and the independents, which group is it that really envies the other?

THE UNIVERSITY PRODUCT.

CRITICISM IN A WILL.

Comments on the "university product" are made in the will of Mr. F. Stokes, an incorporated accountant, of Hartington Road, Sherwood, and Union-road, Nottingham, who left £46,083.

In a codicil revoking a gift of £2,000 to Nottingham University he states that taxes and duties have so increased that there would be very little left of his life's savings if he did what he would like to in the way of legacies. "He then adds: 'Further, my 50 years' experience of the 'university product' makes it doubtful to me whether—except in special cases—the training is any good for this workaday world, and further still, as it seems, a part of the policy of the Government to keep all sorts and conditions of men and women 'studying, etc.' until they are well on in years. I think the Government had better pay for them."

He leaves £25 to the United Methodist Free Church, Palm-street, New Bedford.

With my thanks that a hot-headed teacher in the Sunday school kicked me—literally—out of the school some 25 years ago, I beg to say that I am talking to another boy, with the consequence (small thanks to him) that instead of being "taught" by him I set to work and studied hard on my Sundays, and thereby probably laid the foundations for such success as I have had in life.

CRASH TO DEATH TO AVOID TROOPS.

A PILOT'S SACRIFICE.

Did Pilot-Sergeant Owen Herbert McNair, of the Royal Air Force, known to his fellow airmen, on account of his daring work in the air, as the "Black Spider," sacrifice his life at Falmer (Sussex) last month in a successful effort to avoid crashing into London Territorials.

All the men of the 167th Brigade of the Territorial Army who saw the crash are convinced that Sergeant McNair realised that he was not high enough in the air to miss the troops and civilians—including women and children—who were near, and met his death in turning to save their lives.

The official view of the tragedy is that Sergeant McNair crashed when attempting to turn at too low a speed. The crash occurred at the top of the South Downs, four miles east of Brighton. Sergeant McNair was piloting one of a number of single-seater fighters from the 25th Squadron from Hawkinge, Kent, which took part in a demonstration to show how aircraft would attack infantrymen in open country.

A "Wild Gesture."

More than 1,000 men of the Brigade were drawn up in formation on the hills to watch the demonstration, which had almost concluded when the aeroplane suddenly dived to within a few feet of them, and crashed head-on into the hillside, less than the length of a cricket pitch from the front ranks.

Some of the men say that immediately before the crash, the pilot, realising their danger, made a wild gesture as if signalling them to lie down. A second later the machine was a mass of splintered wreckage.

Mr. T. A. Hartley, a visitor from Mortlake, Surrey, said: "The man who crashed was very daring. It seemed to us that he sacrificed his life to avoid the troops."

Territorials who mounted guard over the wreckage were also emphatic that the plot might have reached safety by going on at the risk of crashing into the men.

ON MONDAYS

"He can live without love, What is passion but pining? But civilised man cannot live without dining."

Owen Meredith.

He used to be rude about the cold joint and allude to it as "Ichabod." And poke the tomatoes about to find one that wasn't squashy, and leave the apple tart's pastry on his plate and talk about heavy handed cooks and . . .

Well you know how things used to be on Mondays . . . till you thought of that shattering retort, "All right, you buy me a Frigidaire then!"

Of course, he did in the end—and now Monday sees Ichabod metamorphosed into vol-au-vent, since cook's pastry has miraculously acquired a flaky lightness (only because he chills it in Frigidaire before popping it in the oven), and the salad always seems fresh picked, it's so cool and crisp, and everybody wants to know the secret of your household marketing because they're "never eaten such tender steak, my dear" (which, of course, is due to Frigidaire again), and he swears Frigidaire would be worth twice its price if only for the difference it makes to beer, and . . .

we could go on for hours like this, but how about you having a Frigidaire of your own? The very latest models, fitted with Hydrator and Cold Control that produces frozen sweets, ice creams in a jiffy, can be installed in your kitchen for a very small sum. Fully automatic. Dead silent. Costs only a few cents a week to run. Start seeing about yours by asking

This was the first time in France a Rugby player was tried for an accident which occurred in the course of play.

HUMOUR: ANCIENT AND MODERN.

Mistress: "Are there any questions you would like to ask?"
New Maid: "Yes'm; where shall I park your car after I get mine in your garage?"

Lady: "I want one of your all-season cars."
Salesman: "What do you mean by that?"
Lady: "One that has both a radiator and a fan."

Lady in Baker's Shop: "Your French rolls are really far too small. I can put a whole one into my mouth at once."
Baker: "I can quite believe that, madam, but it's not the fault of the bread."

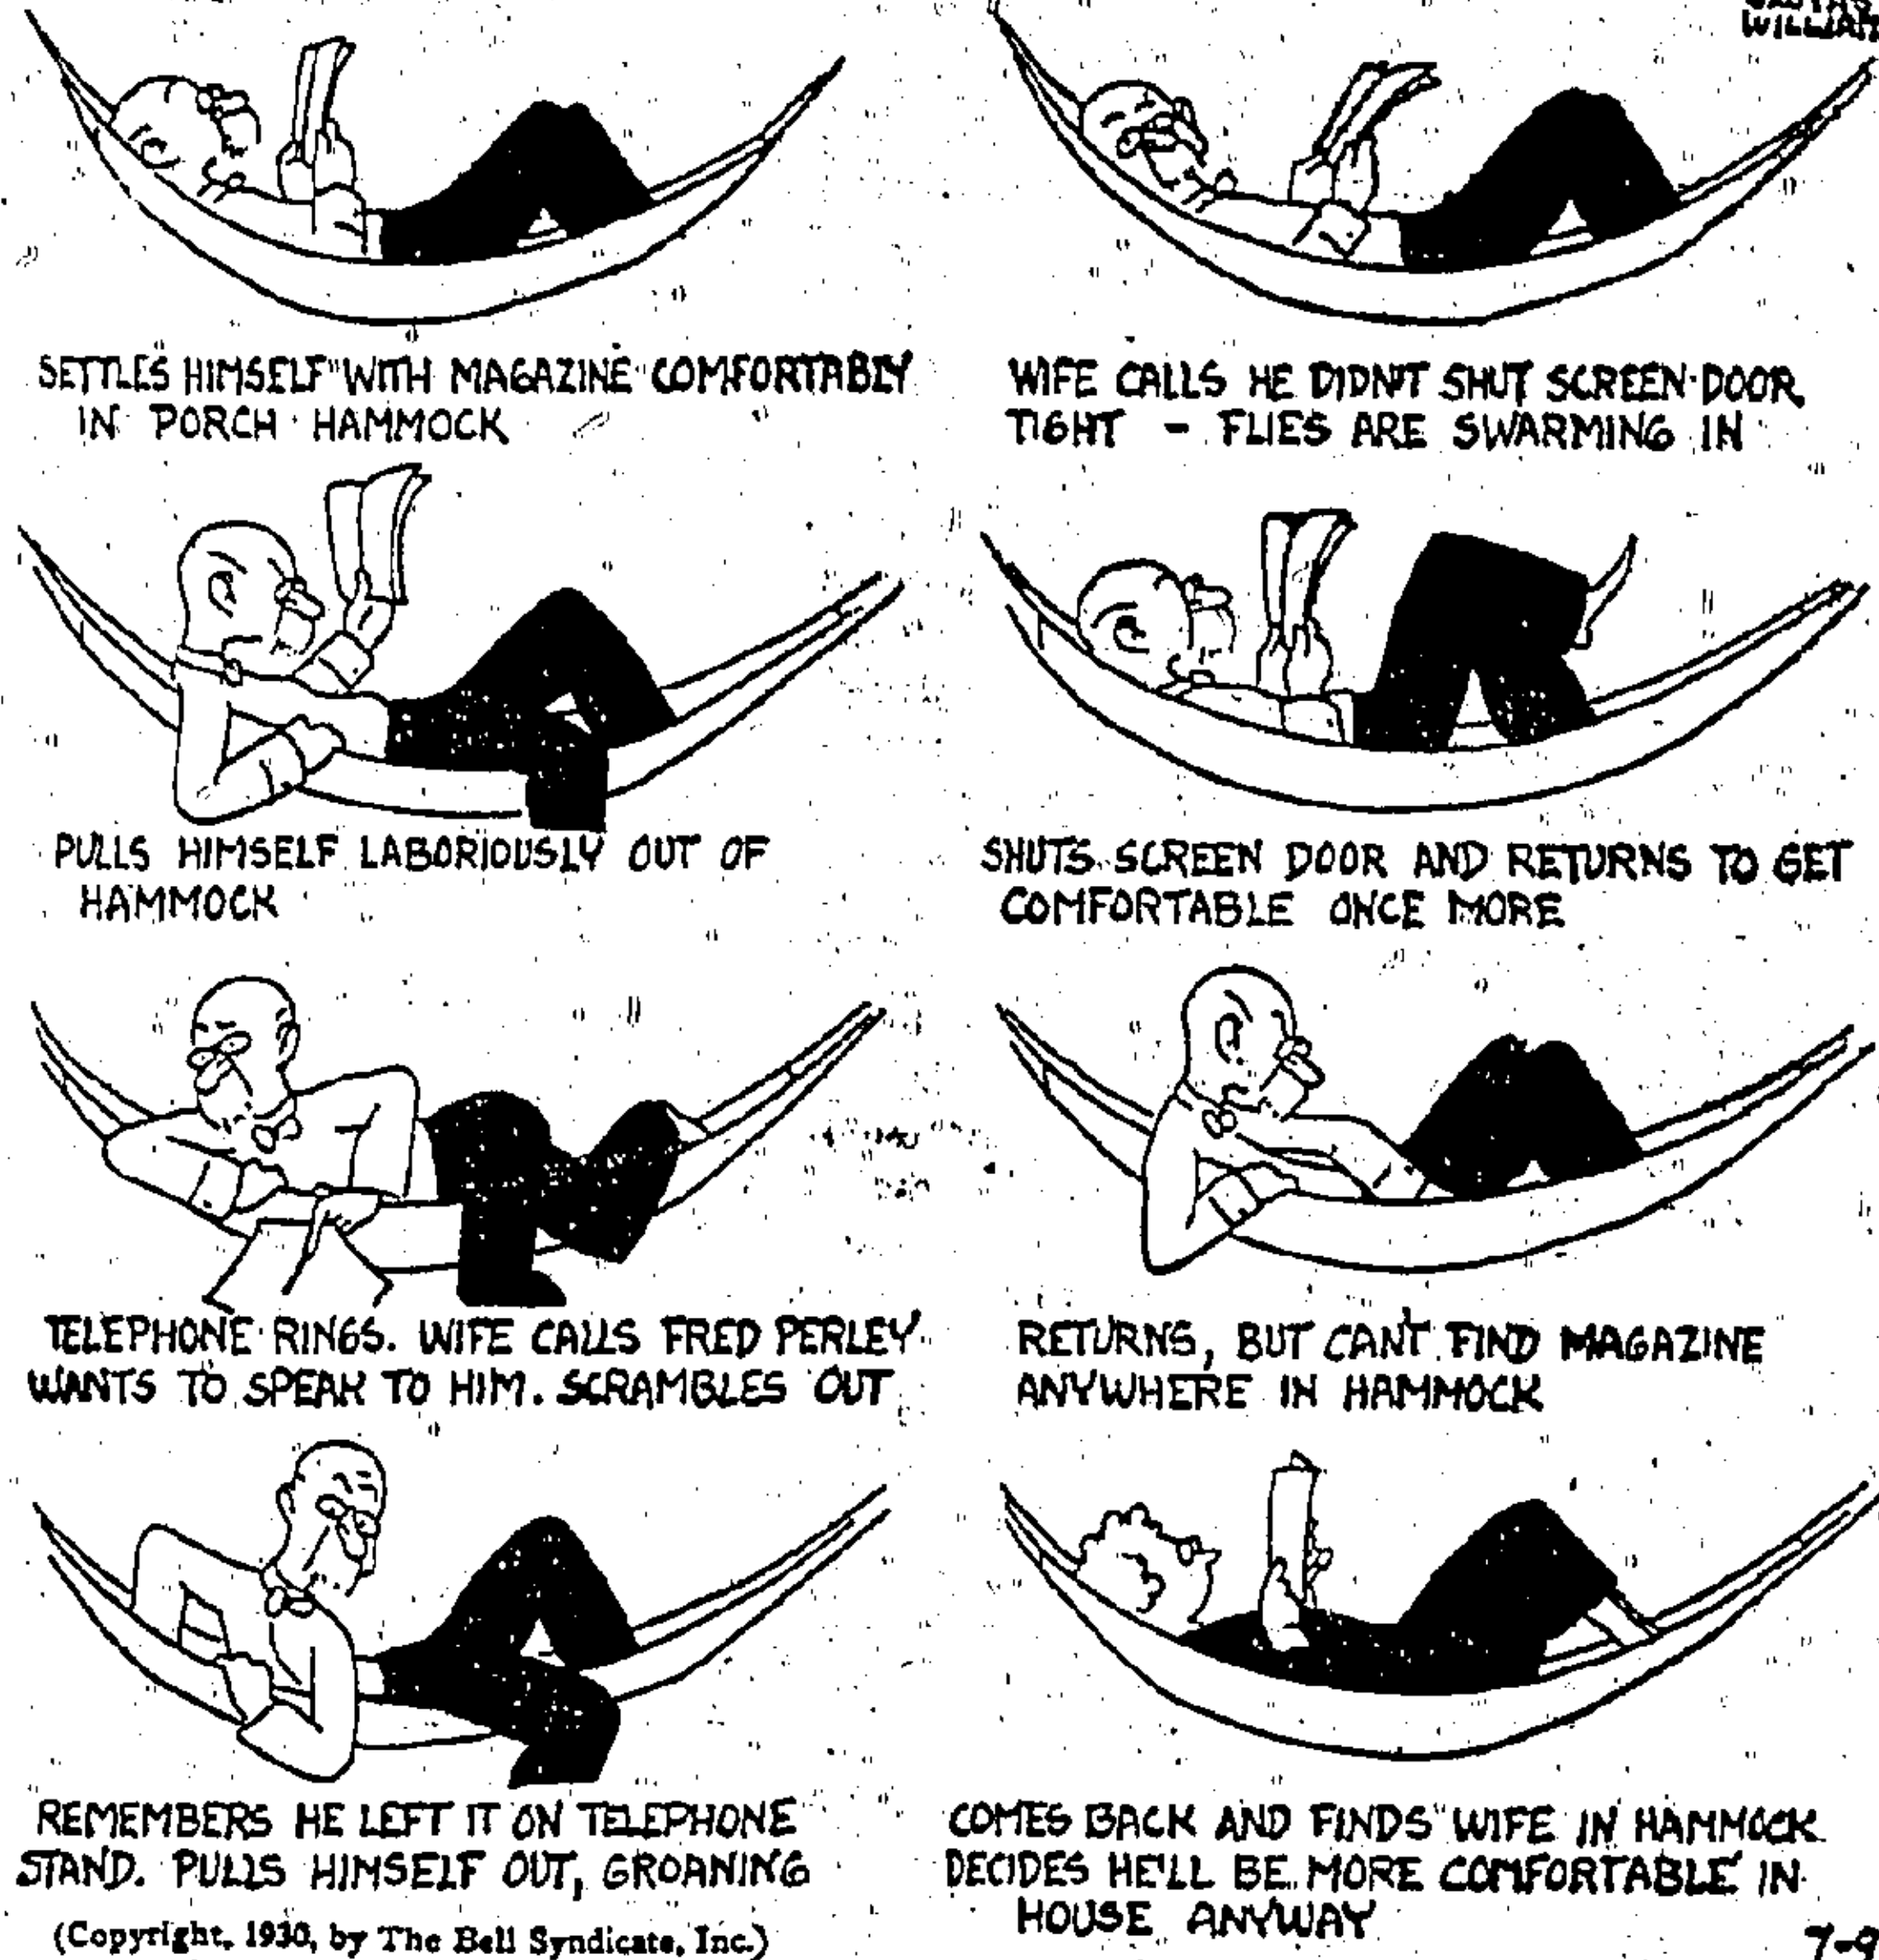

Husband: "And what did you pay for that hat?"
Wife: "Nothing."
Husband: "Well, that is cheap! How did you manage it?"
Wife: "I told the milliner to send you the bill."

The teacher was putting questions to the class.
"What do we call a man," he asked, "who keeps on talking and talking when people are no longer interested?"
"Please, sir," replied a boy, "a teacher."

Customer: "I have spoilt my suit with your fresh paint."
Provision Dealer: "But didn't you see the notice, 'Fresh paint'?"
Customer: "Yes, but I didn't take much notice. You have a notice, 'Fresh Eggs,' but they are not fresh."

POLA NEGRI'S LOST LOVE.

"NO SILVER CLOUD WITHOUT DARK LINING."

"I filed my divorce petition to-day. Alas! love is dead between us, and my soul is crushed, for what is life without love?"

"I do not wish to speak of Serge. We were so happy once together, but when two people cannot live together affectionately the divorce court is the only way out."

The lovely luminous eyes of Pola Negri, the renowned film actress, otherwise Princess Serge Mdivani, filled with tears recently as she broke the news of how the one great romance of her life had faded into disillusionment.

"I would rather not speak of my marriage," she continued in her low, musical voice, which was choked with sobs from time to time. "It is simply a page of my life that is closed now—a page that was so happy while it lasted, but like so many worldly things which ends in sadness."

"Ah! life is like that! Never a silver cloud without a dark lining! Never a passionate love without a little heartstring aching!"
It was only seven months ago that Pola Negri had a happy reconciliation with Prince Mdivani, her handsome Georgian husband, following the divorce petition she filed in November.

YOUNG AVIATOR'S SAD DEATH.

MISTAKE WHILE LOOSENING PARACHUTE.

Rochefort, September 1.—An aviation accident which created considerable sensation took place last Friday. A military aeroplane broke while it was in the air. The pilot jumped with his parachute which did not open and the aviator crashed to the ground. An inquiry was immediately held which arrived at the conclusion that the accident was caused by a mistake on the part of the young pilot, who unconsciously and under the excitement of the moment loosened his parachute belt as he jumped clear of the machine. The result was that the parachute became detached from the young man's body and fell separately while the pilot crashed to earth.

BATHERS IN CLIFF FALL DILEMMA.

CLOTHES BURIED BY TONS OF EARTH.

Several holidaymakers who had visited Luccombe Chine, a favourite spot for bathing between Shanklin and Ventnor, lost all their clothing recently when tons of the lofty cliff collapsed.

Four of the visitors—Mr. and Mrs. K. C. M. Harris, Miss D. Wilshire, and Mr. J. Amos—were from Chingford. They had been bathing and were preparing to dress when a rumbling in the cliffs caused them to dash back into the water.

Afterwards they covered themselves with towels and on arriving at a house on the cliffs above they were lent sufficient clothing to enable them to return to their apartments at Ventnor.

Others who had a narrow escape were Mr. and Mrs. Kitchingham, of Maidstone. Their child was in the water, Mrs. Kitchingham was sitting on a boulder and Mr. Kitchingham was preparing to undress when the cliff began to fall. They ran for safety to the water's edge.

THE SILVER SCREEN.

"THE DANCE OF LIFE."

Twelve women of generously ample proportions, not one of them weighing less than 180 pounds, got their "break" on the screen when Paramount made the all-talking, all-singing, all-dancing picture, "The Dance of Life," from the successful stage play, "Burlesque." The "beef-trust" chorus has a composite poundage of 2,000.

The Amazon chorus appears in an opening sequence of "The Dance of Life," in which Hal Skelly and Nancy Carroll are featured. Fred Datig, casting director, says that to find these women was the most difficult assignment he has ever had.

Gordona Bennett and her daughter, Miss La Reno, were the first two to be signed. Miss Bennett has been on the stage since she was three years old. Miss La Reno, for the past three years, has been a member of the chorus in Los Angeles burlesque show.

Cora Beach Shumway was the prima donna with Eva Tanguay in "Santo Girl" in 1909. One of the largest and, hence, one of the most statuesque ladies in the group is Charlotte Ogden with years of experience as a New York show girl behind her. Kay Deslys, an "end" girl of the line, has been in the show business twenty years. Europe contributed Magda Blom, once a well-known classical dancer of the Swedish stage.

The "beef-trust" chorus work appealed to these women as a "lark" and it was on this appeal Director Datig coaxed them back to the limelight. They are to be seen and heard in the all-talking picture, "The Dance of Life," now showing at the Central Theatre.

"The Doctor's Secret."

The microphone is the severest audience in the world.

The little inanimate instrument that hangs over the heads of Hollywood's picture stars during the filming of talking pictures brought forth this opinion from Ruth Chatterton, one of the leading stars of the stage.

Miss Chatterton, who has faced theatre audiences in virtually every large city in America without a tremor of self-consciousness, admits that the microphone was a "mental hazard" to her during the first few days she rehearsed on the sound stage for her role in "The Doctor's Secret," the Paramount all-talking picture based upon Sir J. M. Barrie's play, "Half an Hour," which comes to the Central Theatre on Wednesday.

"When I look back upon it all now," she remarked, "it seems amazing that a shining little instrument could affect one the way it did me. The sensation, of course, disappeared by the time we had started production, although I must admit that it is far more difficult to work in front of the 'mike' than it is on the stage. We miss the reactions of the audience, for one thing. The microphone is cold and unresponsive, whereas any theatre audience gives out invisible responses to a player's performance. That is why the microphone is such a severe audience."

Featured with Miss Chatterton in "The Doctor's Secret" are H. B. Warner, John Leder and Robert Edeson.

Sir Harry Lauder at the Majestic.

To judge by his first appearance in "Huntingtower" his first film venture, which opened at the Majestic Theatre last night, Sir Harry Lauder might have been a film actor for a lifetime. Every moment he is on the screen he is a joy to watch.

Harry Lauder gives such life and humour to the figure of the little grocer, who encountered such strange adventures on a walking tour, that the sympathy and liking we feel for him continue throughout the picture.

The boys who support the star enter into the spirit of the tale with a joyous abandon and thoroughness that is as delightful as it is successful in creating the right atmosphere.

The picture is so convincing and coherent, and the continuity is strong throughout. The staging is splendidly handled and the direction is of the best.

"Huntingtower" will be repeated at the Majestic, to-day and to-morrow.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

Miss Catherine Elizabeth Mont-
ford, of Ivy House, Churchstoke, Montgomery, stated in her will:—
"No black clothes are to be worn at my funeral, which is to be as simple and inexpensive as possible and also as cheerful."

A gifted daughter of a retired
lieut.-colonel, now a ship's surgeon,
was sentenced at Marylebone
Police Court recently to six months' imprisonment for a series of frauds.
She was Alice Beatrice Colledge, aged 29, described as a shorthand typist, with no fixed address. Detective Mankey said she was born at Capetown, but came to England at the age of two and was educated at Hillside Convent, Farn-borough, Hants. Mr. Freke Palmer, who appeared for her, said she was a gold medalist of the Royal Academy of Music, a linguist, and a trained secretary. How she came to do such mad and contemptible things might be explained by the fact that her mother was now in an asylum, where she had been for 25 years.

A man, aged fifty-two, who had eaten nothing for forty-three days, was admitted to the hospital of St. Chaloand a Attigny. He declared that he had only an occasional glass of water since June 13.

St. Paul's Cathedral organ, rebuilt for the reopening of the cathedral, failed during the afternoon service recently when the "Nunc Dimittis" was about to be sung.
The organist had to descend hurriedly from the manuals and accompany the choir on an emergency piano. A small hand organ, kept in reserve, was used for the rest of the service. It had to be used also for the evening service, as the defect could not be remedied at once. The trouble was found to be in the wind-supply system.

Wembley (Middlesex). Council, at a meeting which lasted till after midnight, refused to allow Sunday games in the open spaces by 12 votes to 9. The matter has been discussed by the council at least six previous meetings.

When the White Star liner Majestic was 35 miles south of Plymouth on her way to Southampton from New York a homing pigeon in an exhausted condition alighted on the bridge and was caught by one of the ship officers. The bird was fed, and on arrival in port it was released, and after getting its bearings flew off in a westerly direction. The pigeon carried three rings on its legs, one bearing the inscription "J. 124," and two metal rings numbered
"N.U.P. 23-5312," and
"N.U.P. 23-W.D."

The international polar research committee terminated its session
last Sunday at Leningrad. The Soviet Government has, in accordance with the findings and proposals of the scholars assembled, decided to establish observatories on Kola peninsula, on Novaya Zemlya,
at Werchojansk and Tehukotaki.

A naval officer who swam with lines to the cruiser Calcutta during the Bermuda hurricane of 1928 has become engaged. Lieutenant Stephen Wentworth Roskill, second son of John Roskill, K.C., and Mrs. Roskill, of Montagu-square, W., and Newton Common, Newbury (Berks) is to marry Miss Elizabeth van den Bergh, younger daughter of Mr. Henry van den Bergh, of Kensington Palace-gardens, W., in August.

No further development has taken place in the dispute between the Royal Dutch Air Company and its pilots. The post office announces that as far as possible foreign airlines will be used for the transportation of air mails though no responsibility will be taken by the Dutch authorities for eventual delays.

Gladiators in combat are depicted in relief on fragments of a Roman glass vessel or cup which has been discovered during excavations on the Colchester by-pass road. One gladiator is shown in a prostrate position, and on this same portion of glass are two fully-armed Samnites in combat, clearly depicted in large helmets with small swords and oblong shields.
The vessel to which these interesting portions of glass belonged had been encircled by inscriptions giving the names of the combatants. The glass, which is in the possession of the Colchester and Essex Museum, is sea green in colour and is believed to be the remains of a Roman drinking vessel. One other such cup or vessel is in existence, and this vessel is intact and is in the British Museum. It does not show gladiators in combat, but gives a representation of a race between four chariots. There is also an inscription which gives the names of the four charioteers, as well as the name of the winner of the race.

Sixteen miners were entombed by an explosion in a pit at Lanarkshire. When the rescue-parties reached the spot it was found that five of the entombed men were already dead and nine grievously injured. Of the latter, three died on the way to hospital. The remaining two were but slightly wounded.

A fourth and final dividend of 2s. 6 3/4d. in the £ in connection with the affairs of Alfred Williams Carpenter, trading as the Charing
Cross Bank, was paid recently.
The Charing Cross Bank, which was established in 1870, and had over 40 branches, failed in 1910, with a loss of £1,700,000. It was stated that there were over 17,000 investors. Three dividends have already been paid to creditors, which,
with the one now announced, make a total distribution of 4s. 8 3/4d. in the £.

Saint Hedwig's cathedral which is the chief Roman-Catholic church of Berlin, saw last Sunday the enthronement of Bishop Schreiber, with the usual splendid ceremonial.
Dr. Schreiber, hitherto bishop of Meissen, thus assumed full charge of the Berlin bishopric which is regarded as of great political importance.

William Robert Duncan Findlay, aged 48, formerly an officer in the Seaforth Highlanders, was found shot at his home at Lyndhurst Road, Peckham, S.E., recently. At the inquest, at Camberwell, the widow said that her husband was gassed during the war and invalided home. Since then he had never been the same. His nerves were badly affected, he could not sleep and had pains in the head. A doctor said that Findlay had brain storms, and imagined that he was being attacked by Germans. A verdict of Suicide Whilst of Unsound Mind was returned.

During a discussion on a delicate military question one of the German Ministers remarked that it was not the time for subtleties, and that common sense should be allowed to speak. "Good sense is not always enough," replied President von Hindenburg, who was present. "If it were, not a soldier would go to the front."

The proprietor of a picture house at Bawtry, near Doncaster, who has closed his cinema owing to lack of support, in an open letter to the inhabitants states that he has not thought it necessary to help to keep up the house except on the occasion of a charity or free show, when they were "obliged to be in evidence to save their faces." It is now evident, he says, that the public "prefer 'canned' music from America (which is an insult to anyone's intelligence) to the appealing better films of British production."

The Cruel Pain
of PILES

WHY endure the burning irritation, inflammation, swelling and other distressing symptoms of piles? That great soothing and healing balm, Zam-Buk, brings sure and lasting relief. Even in cases where operation seemed inevitable it has been used with complete success.

Mr. Percy V. Harper, of Tiparra, S.
Australia, says:—"For two years I was a martyr to piles. The complaint got so severe that I was beginning to think the only way to a cure was operation. The burning irritation was terrible and when at my worst I could scarcely move about."

"I took doctors' medicine and used all sorts of ointments and salves, but still I started with Zam-Buk. It was just throwing money away."

"Zam-Buk was wonderful and I felt its great soothing power soon after the first application. As I continued the treatment all pain, swelling and inflammation was overcome. Zam-Buk has now made me free from piles."

MISSING EXPLORER GOES HOME.

REMAINS OF ANDREE BROUGHT BACK.

LOST MEN'S LONG MARCH TO WHITE ISLAND.

Tromsø, Sept. 1.—To-night, ten days after the world first learned of the recovery of the remains of the members of the ill-fated Andree North Pole expedition, the whaler, Bratvaag, escorted by all sorts of craft, their flags at half-mast, entered Tromsø harbour with the bodies underneath a tarpaulin weighted down by "lumps" of ice on her poop deck. With the sole exception of the members of the Swedish commission appointed by the Government and the local authorities, nobody was allowed aboard the vessel from which the bodies will be transferred to the local hospital after nightfall.

Last night the Bratvaag dropped anchor at Skjerno near Hammerfest where the leader of the Norwegian scientific expedition, Gunar Horn, who discovered the remains of the Andree expedition dispatched an official telegram of 3,000 words, startling the telegraph operator in this out-of-the-world station who had to work all night, having also to handle quite a big number of messages from the newspaper correspondents who had descended upon Skjerno. Horn too only a few people were allowed aboard the steamer, the rest being kept at a respectful distance by the entire police force of the town which in this extraordinary task was assisted by special volunteers.

Early Reports Exaggerated.

Stockholm, September 1.—The newspaper Dagbladet publishes an interview with Gunar Horn, the leader of the expedition which found the bodies of Andree and his companions. From this it appears that the first reports, as some Arctic explorers foreshadowed, were much exaggerated and that so far from being well-preserved, the bodies are mere skeletons with some frozen flesh still adhering. There was every evidence that Polar bears had ravaged the camp, Andree's remains could be identified only by the diary found in his pocket. Horn also expressed doubts regarding the possibility of preserving the bodies though he believes that the diaries and log books may under careful treatment yield their secrets. On the other hand Horn confirmed that the three men had apparently reached the spot on White Island where their remains were found, only after a long march as appeared from their badly worn clothing and the state of the runners of their sleigh.

Andree and his two companions, Horn continued, probably reached White Island in September and, having plenty of ammunition, lived on birds until they succumbed to the cold. A loaded rifle was found beside the body of Andree in addition to a small cooking oven and a plate with the rest of a meal. The two other bodies were discovered approximately 40 ft. away from this place. The entire camp had been covered by snowdrifts with a piece of an oar sticking out and leading to the discovery. Horn finally suggested that a well-equipped expedition be sent out to White Island where probably some more important finds could be made.

THE SINO-GERMAN AIR SERVICE.

TO BEGIN OPERATIONS IN JANUARY.

Dealing with the Sino-German Air Service, the Sinciang reports that officials of the Chiao-tungpu will take about four months to make necessary preparations for the inauguration of the service which is expected to begin operations during January, 1931.

Six Chinese directors have been selected in accordance with the provisions of the agreement entered into between the Chiao-tungpu and the German firm concerned. These will be Messrs. Wang Po Chun, Minister of Communications; Wei Yi Foo, the Vice-Minister; Lin Shu Fan, Chief of the Postal Administration Department of the Chiao-tungpu; Hsuen Ching, councillor to the Ministry; Lin Tien Chun, secretary to the Ministry; and Li Ching Tsung, a senior official of the Ministry, says the telegram. The chairman of the Board of Directors, who will be concurrently the general manager of the service, will be elected from among the directors but it is a foregone conclusion that Mr. Wang Po Chun will be given the post.

The head office of the service will be established in Nanking and the branches will be established for the time being in Nanking, Shanghai, Tientsin (Tientsin), Peking, and Manchuli (or Nrga, Mongolia).

CANTON RESTAURANTS STRIKE.

PROTEST AGAINST CUSTOMERS' BILLS IN DUPLICATE.

[FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.]

CANTON, Sept. 7.

All the restaurants, cafes and eating-houses closed their doors and went on strike en bloc yesterday in protest against what they term "the most annoying and unreasonable demands" of the Government tax farmers, who, with the sanction of the Provincial Council, have tried to force them to make out all bills to customers in duplicate for auditing purposes. These restaurant and cafe proprietors have been annoyed ever since the question of writing out all bills in duplicate was first mooted some months ago. They declared that such a procedure would mean a great deal of unnecessary trouble, additional expense on their part and a waste of time. They further argued that they would rather close up than comply with such demands. They repeatedly tried to persuade the Provincial Government not to force such a procedure on them, but without success. They then appealed to Nanking, trying to get the Central Authorities to stop the Canton Government from enforcing such a procedure, but again without success.

When the new law became operative yesterday, all the restaurants, cafes, and eating-houses in Canton closed their doors in silent protest. The Government, in a circular notice to the public in support of its tax farmers, states that the purpose of having the restaurant and cafe proprietors make out their bills to their customers in duplicate, duly chopped and numbered, is to prevent these merchants from defrauding the Government of any of its revenues. The old method whereby no duplicate was kept is not sound and is open to fraud.

The Government is decidedly firm and resolute in its attitude towards the strike, which has deprived tourists and visitors here from getting any good high-class food, for which Canton is famous. It has ordered that unless these merchants quickly re-open their shops and comply with the demands of the tax farmers, it will take steps to nullify their licence, thus forcing them to remain closed permanently. There will be no compromise of any kind.

Mr. Fan Ki Mo, Commissioner of Finance, and a very staunch supporter of the tax farmers, said in an interview that he saw no reason why these merchants should not comply with the Government order. The arguments advanced by these merchants on strike are untenable. No matter what the outcome will be the Government will not change its attitude in the least.

The strike is seriously affecting dealers in pork, beef, fish and all other marine products, vegetables, and poultry, whose business depends largely on the restaurants and cafes. It is also seriously affecting the Government's revenue from the licensed houses and mah jongs.

The restaurants serving foreign food, of which there are over 20 in Canton, have also joined in the strike.

JAPAN AND NAVAL PACT.

PRIVY COUNCIL AND EXPERTS DIFFER.

Tokyo, September 1.—As has already been announced by the Japanese Press, the Privy Council has chosen a committee of nine members to study the London Naval Pact. On the other hand, the Superior Military and Naval Council which has met on several occasions to study the question of naval construction elaborated by the new Naval Chief of Staff, Admiral Taniguchi, in agreement with its opinion on the results of view of national defence. Admiral Taniguchi's programme has been considered absolutely insufficient and the Council is now turning towards the policy of Admiral Kato. This latter official has already prepared a programme of development of the defence forces. The Superior Council has agreed upon much amongst itself notably in connection with its demands for the increase of Naval Air Forces.

As a result of this situation exists between the Cabinet on the one side and the Privy Council and the Superior Naval and Military Council on the other. It is very difficult to obtain an idea of the progress which these two different opposed schools of thought have been able to make in public opinion but it cannot be lost sight of that with the financial and economic crisis under which the country is suffering at present, the Naval and Military officials have little chance of seeing their point of view triumph. However, it is always necessary to keep in mind the strong patriotism of the Japanese, which the Chief of Staff's supporters may be able to move.

SERIOUS RIOTING IN HUNGARY.

RESULT OF GENERAL STRIKE.

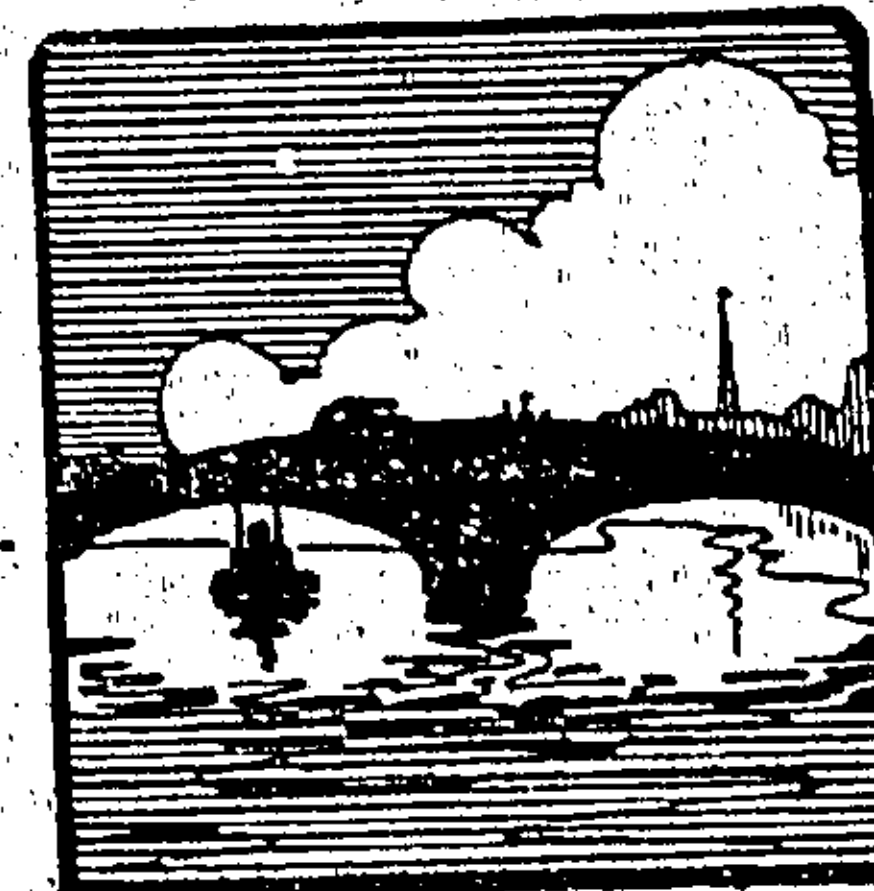

BUDAPEST NOW IN STATE OF SIEGE.

Budapest, September 1.—Excitement has increased amongst the population particularly among the workers against the dictatorship of Admiral Horthy, and during these last few days rumours have been current concerning the possible return of one of the Hapsburg family who will remount the throne. This has not contributed anything toward the improvement of the situation complicated by the economic difficulties of the country.

At an early stage of the demonstration the masses got out of control and attempted to sack some shops and to loot houses whereupon mounted police drove them back with drawn sabres, being repeatedly pelted with stones and lumps of coal from an overturned lorry. Finally the commander of the police gave order to fire whereupon the demonstrators dispersed in great haste.

During the afternoon the situation became again extremely ugly when armoured cars patrolled the main thoroughfares but towards the evening the authorities were believed to be in complete control of the situation. The special patrols will be maintained throughout the night and the military held in readiness for any emergency. The Socialist leaders emphatically deny any intention on their part to incite or use the masses for rioting and express the belief that extremists must have used the opportunity for their own sinister purposes.

PARSEE NEW YEAR.

LOCAL CELEBRATIONS
TO-DAY.THE TEACHINGS OF ZOROASTER.

To-day the Parsees celebrate their political New Year, the 1300th of the era of Yazdegerd III, the last of the Sassanian monarchs of the Sassanian Dynasty, by a social gathering at Buxey Lodge, Conduit Road, the former residence of the late Sir Hormuzji N. Modji, Kt., the founder of Hong Kong University.

The Parsees trace their descent to a people who flourished in Persia in pre-historic times, and are the remnants of a once mighty nation. The Aryas ("the noble ones") are said in the "Avesta" to have had their original home in the fair land of Aryana Vaeja (the cradle lands of the Aryans), which had been "the first among the lands" created by Mazda. Where that ancient motherland of the Aryans was, we cannot determine with certainty, but it seems to have been a region far to the north, which, according to Iranian tradition, was overwhelmed and destroyed by ice and snow.

At a later period, and after many generations of wandering (about 4,000 B.C.), these people migrated into the lower and more fertile and salubrious regions of the south, west and east. The basins of the Oxus and the Jaxartes in Western Turkestan, Persia, Bactria and Afghanistan were the regions where these Indo-Europeans had long carried on their activities, evidence of which is to be found in the Avesta.

Zoroaster.

Zoroaster, the ancient legislator of the Aryans of Central Asia, was also the undisputed Master of the Magi, and the date assigned to him by Pliny, Aristotle and other classical writers, goes back to more than 6,000 years before our era. He lived during the reign of the great King Gushasp of Bactria. The fundamental principle on which Zoroaster founded his religion is righteousness, pure and simple. In the Gatha, he promulgates this simple doctrine by saying "Righteousness is the only road to divinity, all other roads are of no avail."

Zoroaster lays particular stress on the purity of thoughts, as thoughts are the mental pictures formed in the mental plane, and words and deeds proceed from thoughts. Desire is the seed of all thoughts, and he insists that all human desires should be positively and absolutely righteous, and in strict accordance and perfect harmony with the laws of Nature, as they form the quality and colour of all thoughts. Zoroaster teaches the immortality of the Soul, and inculcates upon his followers a firm belief in the existence of Ahura Mazda or One Supreme God, Infinite Father, and absolute Creator of the Universe. Despite the assertions to the contrary made by some of the Greek, Arab and Christian writers, Zoroaster teaches us a very exalted monotheism. The so-called worship of the Sun, Fire and Mithra are nothing but symbolic. These are mere outward manifestations of the Deity, Ahura Mazda.

The "Avesta."

If the history of human thought is of any importance the "Avesta" claims a very prominent position in that history. It not only affords one of the oldest monuments of Aryan speculation, but in view of its enormous influence upon later Jewish and Christian theology, it must justly claim a decisive place in the development of religion.

The Parsees are distinguished for their public spirit and charity, and for their loyalty to the British throne. Out of a population of 100,000 scattered all over the world, this small community can boast of scores of millionaires, three Barons, and about 50 Knights Bachelor. Their religion enjoins virtue in thought, word and deed, and they have always proved true to their faith. Although the prosperity of the community does not extend for more than a century, there is scarcely a town in the Bombay Presidency which does not bear evidence of Parsee influence.

Parsees have built hospitals, almshouses, colleges and schools for the benefit of all nationalities and creeds, but the fact must not be forgotten that they have preserved their individuality for close on twelve centuries and there has been no assimilation into the masses of India.

BAD SARDINES.

SHOPKEEPER HEAVILY
FINED.MAGISTRATE'S STERN
REBUKE.

The case in which four Chinese who were charged with the possession of tins of sardines unfit for human consumption again came up before Mr. T. S. Whyte-Smith at the Kowloon Magistracy on Saturday. Mr. L. R. Andrewes, Assistant Crown Solicitor, appeared for the prosecution, and Sanitary Inspector Taylor was the complainant.

Lei Wu, who was charged with the possession of 3,300 tins of "Sea Brand" sardines, stated in the witness-box that he was the accountant of the Cheung Tai grocery shop of 53, Reclamation Street. A travelling tradesman, who was a clansman, asked him to store the sardines. Witness refused to take delivery of them, and the tradesman then got a man to look after the sardines in the house.

Cross-examined by Mr. Andrewes, witness stated that the man who looked after the sardines was not an employee of his. He admitted that he rented the premises at 16, Reclamation Street and that he paid the rent on behalf of the tradesman.

Mr. Andrewes: I put it to you that this travelling tradesman does not exist and that you have made all this up.

Witness: He does exist, but my men have failed to locate him.

Replying to further questions, witness stated that the wooden crates used for storing mineral waters at the grocery shop, were the same as those containing the sardines.

Magistrate's Rebuke.

At the close of the evidence, Mr. Whyte-Smith remarked: "I do not believe a word about your story of the travelling tradesman, and even if I did, I would still convict. It was you who got these premises for the tradesman, and therefore you are virtually the tenant of 16, Reclamation Street. You knew perfectly well that some of the tins of sardines were broken, and some in a damaged condition. You did not perhaps realise the seriousness of the offence, and you did not realise what would have happened. Each of these tins might have caused the death of some purchasers. I take into consideration this, but I must have the public protected. Most scandalous thing this—a terrible business. You will be fined $500 or three months' gaol in default. The charges against the other defendants were adjourned till September 12.

LOCAL WEDDING.

MR. G. E. KERR AND MISS
E. P. LANGLEY.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the Union Church, Kennedy Road, on Saturday, the contracting parties being Miss Elizabeth Philip Langley, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. R. Langley, of No. 27, Connecticut Avenue, Greenwich, Connecticut, U.S.A., and Mr. George Edward Kerr, son of Mrs. and the late Mr. E. G. Kerr, of High Mains, Dumbarton, Scotland. The Rev. F. Short officiated, and Mr. E. G. Longyear presided at the organ. The hymns were "The voice that breathed o'er Eden" and "O, Perfect Love."

The bride, who was given away by Mr. C. A. Grimes, wore a creation by "Worth" of New York, of white satin, "princess" style, and white net veil with hand made lace. She carried a shower bouquet of white ginger lilies, with asparagus fern. The bride's going away dress was an aquamarine silk crepe ensemble, with hat to match.

Other dresses were:—Bridesmaids, Miss Marie Clarke; white net over pale blue satin with coronet to match. Miss Joan Smith; white net over pink satin with coronet to match, both dresses being in mid-Victorian style. The bridesmaids carried purple posies.

Miss Rosemarie Richards, the flower girl, was dressed in white net over white satin with tiny pink rosebuds with coronet to match, and she carried a basket of Honolulu creepers.

Mrs. C. A. Grimes, Matron of Honour, wore a dress of beige georgette and lace, with hat to match.

Mr. R. B. Bell acted as best man, and Messrs. T. W. Carr and P. Gillespie were the ushers.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at No. 123, Wong Nei Cheong Road, the residence of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Grimes, at which a large number of guests offered felicitations, after which the happy couple left for their honeymoon, which will be spent at Repulse Bay.

The presents included a large number from friends in the United States.

Amongst the presentations were:—

Bride to groom, gold wrist watch; Groom to bride, gold and diamond brooch; To the bridesmaids, gold and sapphire pendants; To the flower girl, gold and amethyst bracelet; To the Matron of Honour, gold and platinum pendant.

BIRCH FOR BAG-SNATCHERS

SEQUEL TO GLENEALY INCIDENT.

Miss Lee Chi, of No. 5, Conduit Road, who was the victim of a bag-snatcher on Thursday, appeared as complainant before Mr. H. R. Butters at Central Magistracy on Saturday, when two Chinese youths were charged in connection with the affair and sentenced to 12 months' hard labour and 24 strokes of the birch each.

Miss Lee was walking along Glenealy on Thursday, when she felt herself pushed from behind. Turning round she saw that one of the accused was running away with her handbag, which contained $50.70, a pair of spectacles valued at $15, and a silver powder box valued at $10. Miss Lee chased the defendant, who ran uphill towards Robinson Road. The thief was caught, but not before he had transferred the bag to an accomplice.

On information given by the snatcher, the accomplice was also arrested and the major portion of the stolen money was recovered.

The following were the guests at dinner:—Mr. H. Phillips, the Hon. Mr. and Mrs. Cressy, the Hon. Mr. and Mrs. J. Owen Hughes, and Mr. Hornell.

SWEEP TICKETS BANNED.GAMBLING ORDINANCE TO BE AMENDED.

DETAILS IN "GAZETTE."

The latest copy of the Government Gazette contains the draft of a bill to amend the Gambling Ordinance, 1891.

Section 2 of the Gambling Ordinance, 1891, is amended by the insertion after the word "contest" in paragraph (1) thereof of the words:

Other than sweepstakes conducted in accordance with the provisions of section 13 of this Ordinance.

The following new section shall be inserted in the Gambling Ordinance, 1891, as section 13, thereof:—

(1) Ordinary social or sporting clubs in the Colony may, with the approval in writing of the Inspector-General of Police, conduct sweepstakes on horse or pony races provided that the following conditions are observed:—

(a) Not less than 90 per cent., or in the case of a club organising the race not less than eighty per cent. of the total subscription shall be devoted to prizes for the subscribers.

(b) Except in the case of pari-mutuel or cash-sweep tickets sold by the club organising the race on the premises of the race course during the meeting at which the race takes place to persons attending such meeting, no tickets shall be sold; but subject to the provision of subsection (2), the chances shall be allocated only to members or subscribers of the club conducting the sweepstakes, who shall sign their names to numbers on lists in the premises of the club to which they belong.

(c) No hawking of chances or advertisement of the sweepstakes shall be permitted.

(2) Ordinary social or sporting clubs in the Colony may with like approval and subject to the like conditions provide lists of numbers for their members and subscribers as agents for any other approved club or clubs, whether within the Colony or elsewhere.

Objects and Reasons.

The object of this Ordinance is to give conditional legal sanction to the ordinary club sweepstakes conducted on horse or pony races which it has hitherto been the practice to ignore though illegal under the existing Gambling Ordinance. The sanction is limited to horse and pony races as it is considered undesirable to give a general permission which may encourage new forms of sweepstakes.

JAPANESE MURDER CASE.

ACCUSED TO BE TRIED IN JAPAN.

Before Mr. T. S. Whyte-Smith at the Kowloon Magistracy on Saturday, Fumi Hagihara, a quarter-master of the s.s. Saka Maru was charged with the murder of Sugara Mishima, a carpenter, on board that ship.

M. H. Somerset-Fitzroy who prosecuted, said that according to Japanese law, the Japanese authorities claimed that accused could be tried by them. On the other hand the vessel was in Hong Kong harbour, and the Kowloon Court and the Supreme Court also had jurisdiction to try the case.

In these circumstances, Mr. Fitzroy continued, it was within the province of the Crown to surrender any persons who committed an offence under that jurisdiction.

His Excellency, the Governor (Sir William Peel, K.B.E., C.M.G.) had seen fit to exercise the prerogative of the Crown, and had decided to hand over the accused to the charge of the Japanese Consul, so that the accused might be tried in Japan.

Mr. Whyte-Smith then made an order for the release of the accused in order that he might be tried in Japan.

ARMED ROBBERY
FRUSTRATED.GANG WALKS INTO POLICE
TRAP.

An attempt by four armed robbers from Yau-mat to break into a house in Hong Kong on the night of August 3 was foiled when their scheme was made known to the Police. A number of police officers were waiting at Triangle Street for them to appear, and as a result the four men were caught and brought before Mr. R. E. Lindsell at Central Magistracy on Saturday, when they were charged with conspiracy to commit an armed robbery.

Evidence was given by a Chinese detective, who stated that he received information from a relative concerning a plot to rob a house on the night of August 3. Together with several of his comrades, he waited at Triangle Street till the robbers appeared, when they were seized and searched. Various weapons, including iron spikes, a dagger and a large butcher's knife, were found in their possession. Two of the men also had potatoes and lengths of wire in their pockets.

The detective explained that it was not improbable that the potatoes were intended to be used as gags, and the wire for tying the victims.

The defendants submitted that they were present in Wanchai to afford protection to one Shek Mong, who was going to collect money owing to him, but who was afraid that he would be attacked by his debtors.

Shek Mong, a relative of the previous witness, said that he visited a house in Tung Hing Street, Yau-mat, to find employment. Two of the four defendants were then in the house. One of them, the second defendant, suggested that Shek Mong should join them in their plot to rob a house. The comparatively safe job of watching for the police at the street corner was allotted to Shek Mong. On leaving the house, however, witness went to inform the previous witness of the plot.

In consequence when the party arrived at Wanchai they walked straight into the hands of police officers.

In convicting the four men, his Worship said: "There is the clearest possible evidence that you are a robber gang. You are extraordinarily lucky to have been arrested before you did anything or you would have got several years' imprisonment and a whipping. The most that I can give you for conspiracy is only six months, and that you will get."

THE LATE MR. W. GARDNER

THAT FERRY SERVICE.

There is an interesting divergency
of opinion revealed in local Press comment upon the Government's vehicular ferry scheme. Some of that comment has been expressed in terms of scant courtesy—insincerity and ignorance being among the insinuations thrown out in explanation of our expression of opinion upon the subject. Other comment in support of the Government's plans has been more restrained, as it has been more reasoned, and it is a pleasure to examine the arguments advanced with a view to ascertaining how far—if at all—we are able to accept them. Our own view, as expressed in these columns
a few days ago, was that the Government's scheme might be sound,
but on the facts as at present generally known the project seemed much more ambitious (and expensive) than was warranted by existing circumstances. Subsequently we expressed satisfaction that the Unofficial Members of the Legislative Council, before agreeing to the expenditure of 13 lakhs of public money upon piers, had asked for more time to consider the whole question.

In commenting upon this aspect of the scheme, the Hong Kong Telegraph expresses surprise that the Unofficial Members should have taken up what it regards as an obstructive attitude. Our contemporary is of opinion that this question of an improved vehicular ferry service has been already discussed so exhaustively, that there is really nothing more to be said about it. The Unofficial Members should have made up their minds long ago

on such issues as cost and public or private maintenance, so that now—when the Government at last decides to take action—there is no justification for further delay in deciding the issue. The Unofficial Members—it is argued—should have gone to the Council meeting last Thursday with their views all ready for expression, based upon conclusions reached months ago. These arguments do not shake our conviction that the Unofficial Members did right in requesting delay before discussing the Government's plans.
We are well aware that, at intervals
during the past four years, the improvement of existing vehicular ferry facilities has been publicly discussed. We have not denied that the present system is primitive and, at times, inadequate. What in our opinion has not been yet established—and apparently the Unofficial Members are of the same opinion—is (1) whether such an expensive scheme as that contemplated is called for, and (2) whether the public treasury should be drawn upon to provide the whole or part of the cost of any improved ferry scheme which may be adopted.

We have not denied—it would be absurd and futile to make the attempt—that the present method of transporting vehicles across the harbour is not as good as it might be. What we doubt—pending the disclosure of more recent and definite facts, we cannot deny—is that the volume of vehicular traffic, present or prospective, is not such as to warrant an outlay of three million dollars on a ferry service.
In 1927 the Chamber of Commerce expressed the view that private motor-cars would be transferred
"in much larger numbers" with the coming of an improved vehicular ferry, but the number of motor-lorries transported would depend upon the cost of delivering cargo by that means as compared with water-borne freight. Inquiries in that direction (as published in December, 1928) showed that "a vehicular ferry cannot compete economically with the present method of cross-harbour transport for bulk cargo between godowns on the sea-front." The cost of transporting household coal from the Kowloon yards to Hong Kong
by water "is less than with a vehicular ferry unless the ferry charges were negligible." It was also ascertained that cargo and freight could be transported by water at between $1.50 and $1.80 per ton, while the cost by vehicular ferry would be about $3.30 per ton.
Finally, it was pointed out that while better ferry facilities were very desirable, the number of vehicles crossing would probably not exceed 150 daily, and might be considerably less if the fare was much in excess of $1. "It would therefore appear that at the present time (1928) a vehicular ferry would be unable to earn sufficient return to justify the cost of installation."

Now, in view of these facts, we consider that the Unofficial Members acted wisely last week in asking for time to consider the Government's demand for 13 lakhs. That this load "is to be passed on to posterity—by the simple process of raising a loan—is a poor excuse for not first giving careful thought to the wisdom of the proposed expenditure. If the position to-day is what it was in 1928—that waterborne transport is 50 per cent.
cheaper than the cost of carrying freight on a vehicular ferry—then the fact seems to be established that the people who would benefit most by the Government's plan would be motorists. It may be conditions have changed very materially during the last two years. If they have, then our views will be modified accordingly. It is, we imagine, precisely because of the uncertainty of the whole position that the Unofficial Members asked more time to consider whether or not to support the Government's proposals. And we are still of opinion that, in view of the facts we have quoted, their action was fully justified.

★ News and Views ★

Mr. Sydney J. W. Clark, formerly of Chester, passed away, at the age of 87, at Kingston-Thames, on August 8, after a long illness. After twenty-five years of business life in connection with Bradleys (Chester), Ltd., and the establishment of a large number of clothing businesses in the North of England, Mr. Clark gave up business at the age of 48 to devote himself to the missionary cause. He paid extensive visits to India, China, Africa, and Madagascar in order to survey conditions of missionary work. His suggestions were found to be most valuable to the missionary societies and were largely adopted. Mr. Clark put in trust a sum of money to provide £1,200 a year for twelve years for preaching bands in China, and the London Missionary Society has these bands at work in North, Central, and Eastern China to-day.
The survey work which Mr. Clark did has added much to the general knowledge of the mission field, and its influence has been felt throughout the missionary movement.

Messrs. Harris and Vose, of New York, report that nothing constructive in rubber has materialised as yet, and sitting it out is having a very depressing effect on the market, and such delay in reaching any definite conclusion has in the minds of many caused doubt as to any constructive move. As we view the situation, says the China Express and Telegraph, the present low prices will in time automatically restrict the output, whether the British or Dutch Government co-operate or not. What is needed for the benefit of all interested in Great Britain is unanimity, as later on the world requirements will be of sufficient dimensions to lend support to all, both small and large producers. We are inclined to favour the constructive side of the market for the long pull rather than selling short, despite the fact that there is little or no encouragement at this writing to warrant any decided upturn.

They have ordered their extraordinary vehicle of transport from nine large rubber factories. They calculate with the help of the ocean and wind currents to make the unusual voyage to Europe in sixty days, but to be on the safe side they intend to take provisions and water for ninety days. The cost of the journey is to be covered by the sale of picture postcards.

molasses spirit are published in the

The regulations set forth on pages 442, 443 and 444 of the Regulations of Hong Kong, 1844-1925, and headed "Import of intoxicating liquors or denatured spirits by land," also regulations 2 and 3 of the regulations, on page 444, headed "Ship's stores exempted from duty," have been rescinded and new regulations substituted therefor.

A farewell message written by a Chinese girl, who is missing and is supposed to have committed suicide, was found on the back of her mirror, kept in a handbag. The note runs:—"Dear thing, I am going to leave you. I am going into the sea, because I am pressed by a stranger." The girl was a stranger to the Canton, Hong Kong, and the Kowloon, and was found on the 23rd of August on Saturday. On the voyage down she was reported as missing, but no one had seen the girl jump overboard. On the ship's arrival in port, Captain A. W. Muir handed the message and handbag to the Police.

A Chinese sampan man was charged with having distributed advertisements, papers, and pamphlets at the Kowloon Wharf and Godowns, and was remanded for a week by Mr. T. S. Whyte-Smith on Saturday, on bail of $1,000.

A Chinese woman and her husband were brought before Mr. T. S.
Whyte-Smith at the Kowloon Magistracy on Saturday on a charge of disorderly conduct. It was stated by Sergeant Baker that the woman fought with her husband because the latter had borrowed her wages, which he refused to return. His Worship cautioned the couple and remarked that it was a disgraceful thing for a husband and wife to fight in the street.

A Chinese was sentenced to five months' hard labour by Mr. T. S.
Whyte-Smith at the Kowloon Magistracy on Saturday for stealing two supports from a bridge off Castle Peak Road. Sergeant F. G. Baker told his Worship that carts, worked by coolies, passed over the bridge on a railway line, and the theft of these two poles endangered the lives of the coolies. He added that several poles had been stolen and the defendant was the first to be caught in the act.

A Colt service revolver and a metal watch belonging to Mr. W.
K. S. Mok, a Police reservist, which were alleged to have been stolen
by three soldiers about a week ago, have been recovered. The three soldiers have been arrested and handed over to the military authorities as being deserters from the 1st Battalion Somerset Light Infantry. It will be recalled that Mr. Mok reported to the police that while he was bathing in a bay below Felix Villas, he saw three Europeans approach a basket containing his clothing and other things.
When he returned to the spot he found his service revolver and a metal watch missing.

Appearing before Mr. Whyte-Smith at the Kowloon Magistracy on Saturday, an unemployed Chinese pleaded guilty to a charge of stealing an iron standard from the Club de Recreio football ground.
The defendant was on his way to work when he saw the standard and took it. He was seen by a policeman and was taken to the station. The standard was valued at $2, and was used as one of the uprights to support the netting in a goal. Defendant, who was remanded, denied that he had a previous conviction in May last year.

It is notified that at the expiration of three months, the Yuet On Steamship Co., Ltd., will, unless case is shown to the contrary, be struck off the register and the Company will be dissolved.

H.E. the Governor has directed

of the Harbour Master, endorsed on or entered in the licence book of passengers to or from any port or of a line drawn from the southern boundary of the waters of the Colony due north to Tai O Head, thence to Tai O Point, thence to Collinson Head (on Bluff Island), thence to Bate Head, and then to

REVOLUTION IN THE ARGENTINE.

AGED PRESIDENT AT LAST SUBMITS.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 5. The President, Senor Irigoyen, has delegated his powers to the Vice-President, who has proclaimed martial law.

City Stunned.

The news, though not unexpected, has stunned the Capital.

A rigid censorship has been established, but street fighting is reported.

Widespread Minor Disorders in Capital.

The resignation of President Irigoyen is the culmination of discontent of the workers, which led Senor Irigoyen to take such extraordinary measures to prevent an upheaval.

The capital was for some time in the hands of the naval and military forces, but the demonstrations against the Government continued, and the Ministers offered to resign collectively if Senor Irigoyen would do so, but he refused.

The War Minister, Senor Dellepiane, resigned, on September 6, and Senor Irigoyen resigned when persuaded that this alone would keep developments within the constitution.

Minor disorders are now widespread in the capital, but the troops have the situation well in hand.

Buenos Aires in a Ferment.

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 6. The Vice-President, Senor Martinez, has proclaimed a state of siege in the capital for a month, with a view to restoring normal conditions.

Navy Join the Army.

The navy has joined the army in an united effort to oust the 78-year-old Senor Irigoyen.

Admiral Scrim, commanding a squadron of 13 warships lying in harbour, sent a message to the Government signed by every officer of the squadron that the navy would not fire shots at their comrades led by General Jose Uriburu.

Lieut. Francisco Torres was shot by his fellow-officers for refusing to join the movements of the first cavalry regiment. At first he refused to join, but he yielded to threats after half an hour.

President Irigoyen is astounded at the strength of the opposition.

White Flag of Surrender Hoisted.

LONDON, Sept. 7. A message from Buenos Aires states that troops from the north and the south fraternising with the civil population converging on Government House, where the Cabinet has been sitting all day, was the signal for the Government to hoist the white flag of surrender.

Irigoyen's Portrait Publicly Burnt. The crowd poured into Government House and tore down President Irigoyen's portrait (which was publicly burnt in the square later), and ransacked the Government offices.

Meanwhile, the police, had fired at the revolutionaries, who replied with machine-guns.

The mobs set fire to the offices of La Epoca and other newspapers, the firemen refusing to extinguish the flames or support the police.

Irigoyen Disappears.

The whereabouts of President Irigoyen and the members of the Cabinet are unknown.

Irigoyen Kept Misinformed.

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 6. In view of President Irigoyen's majority at the Presidential election in 1928, his present situation represents the greatest landslide in the Argentine a President has ever suffered. One of the reasons for his surprise is that he has almost lived a hermitlike sort of existence, which kept him out of touch with public feeling. The sudden flare up of the flames of revolt absolutely staggered him. Moreover, the President is said to have been seriously misinformed by the small group of politicians who had his confidence. Two members of the Cabinet most intimate with him are bitter personal rivals, and the intrigues for power are largely responsible for having kept President Irigoyen so long in the dark.

Thousand Killed and Wounded.

New York, Sept. 6. One thousand persons have been killed or wounded in the revolution in Argentina, according to an official announcement in Buenos Aires.

Revolutionary Junta Formed.

The revolutionaries have formed a military junta to take control, with General Jose Evaristo Uriburu as President, and the Conservative Deputy Enrique Santa Marina as Vice-President. In succession to Senor Martinez, resigned.

CHANG DENIES JOINING NORTH.

IMPOSSIBLE TO EXPLAIN AWAY RUMOURS.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

SHANGHAI, Sept. 7. According to the Kuo Min News Agency, Chang Hsueh Liang on the 6th inst. wired to Chiang Kai Shek categorically denying the latest crop of rumours that he was joining the Northern coalition in the establishment of a Government in Peiping.

"Recently the rumours have become so rife and numerous that it is well nigh impossible to explain away everyone of them."

Chang Hsueh Liang is alleged also to have wired to Yen Hsi Shan declining to participate in the new Peiping Government.

State of Nervous Tension in Capital.

A message from Buenos Aires reports that a state of nervous tension exists, and that the military disaffection against the President Senor Irigoyen is general in the Buenos Aires area, but the attitude of the navy is uncertain.

The troops are awaiting orders to march on the capital headed by General Jose Uriburu, a nephew of the ex-President Uriburu.

Threat to Bombard Palace.

General Jose Uriburu issued an ultimatum to Senor Irigoyen to resign immediately, or alternatively he would bombard the Government Palace.

An army aeroplane flew over the palace and the President's private residence this morning, and was succeeded a few minutes later by 30 army aeroplanes, which flew round the city in formation and returned to the El Palomar aerodrome.

Open Revolution Breaks Out.

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 6. An open revolution has broken out.

New York, Sept. 6. A message from Buenos Aires reports the success of the revolutionaries.

The white flag was hoisted over Government House.

Wheat Exchange Affected.

New York, Sept. 6. The Associated Press correspondent at Buenos Aires reports that the political upheaval has considerably affected the wheat exchange, where the transactions to-day were the dullist in history.

Irigoyen Arrested.

New York, Sept. 7. Senor Irigoyen has been arrested and detained in a military barracks.

Senor Irigoyen has now handed in his definite resignation.

Dissolution of Congress.

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 7. The Revolutionary Provisional Government has decreed the dissolution of the Congress.

Detailed Account of Yesterday's Events.

The following is a more detailed account of yesterday's events.

The Second Division of the Army, accompanied by thousands of armed students, marched on the capital preceded by military aeroplanes.

Two infantry regiments stationed to defend the north side of the city went over to the revolutionaries. The column then conflicted with the supporters of Senor Irigoyen in front of the Congress House, but after much firing the revolutionaries captured the building.

The Government House was guarded by 1,000 loyal troops. The revolutionaries demanded the surrender of the building, and eventually the white flag was run up, and the rebels rushed the building, over which rebel planes were swooping.

Throughout the fighting a number of trams and taxis were running normally on many streets.

Senor Gonzalez, ex-Minister for the Interior, and Senor Bonavides, ex-Secretary of Senor Irigoyen, were arrested.

Martial law was extended throughout the republic.

Reports from the interior stated that the revolution was popularly acclaimed in the provinces though hitherto the Provincial Governments remain in power.

Provisional Government's Declaration.

General Uriburu has issued a proclamation declaring that the Provisional Government intends to respect the Constitution, and desires a resumption of normal conditions and free elections.

Members of the Provisional Government undertake not to accept candidature for the Presidency.

Trifling Casualties.

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 7. It is now stated that only 15 were killed and 180 wounded in the revolution.

Irigoyen's Release Ordered. General Uriburu has telegraphed ordering the release of Senor Irigoyen, who is confined in barracks at La Plata.

INDIAN PEACE PARLEYS.

COURSE OF ABORTIVE NEGOTIATIONS.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

POONA, Sept. 5. In a joint statement, Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru and Mr. Jayakar trace the course of the abortive negotiations between the Viceroy and the gaoler Congress leaders.

The genesis was an interview at Bombay which Motilal Nehru gave on June 30 to Mr. George Slocombe, special correspondent of the London Daily Herald, as a result of which Mr. Slocombe drafted terms with which Motilal Nehru agreed.

The terms were that if the Imperial Government was able to give a private assurance that it would support the demand for a full and responsible Government of India, subject to mutual adjustments and terms of transfer, then Motilal Nehru would undertake to convey such an assurance to Gandhi and Jawaharlal Nehru.

Gandhi gave the intermediaries a note for the two Nehrus stating that the Round Table Conference should be restricted to a discussion of the safeguards necessary in connection with full self-government during the transition period, but that the question of independence should not be ruled out.

"I Delight in Warfare."

The statement issued by Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru and Mr. Jayakar added that the Nehrus replied jointly, reiterating their "insistence" on the demands contained in the resolutions adopted by the annual Congress at Lahore (complete independence).

Jawaharlal Nehru added in a letter to Gandhi: "I delight in warfare."

Eventually all met at Yeroda Gaol in the middle of August, with the result that Gandhi gave the intermediaries a letter laying down the Nationalist demands.

"Congress Must Continue to Fight for Freedom."

The Viceroy's rejection of these demands was shown to Motilal Nehru, who expressed disappointment, while Gandhi finished the negotiations on September 5, saying that the Nationalists "could see no meeting-ground between the Government and Congress," adding that so long as the British Government and the British people consider India's right to secession impossible and untenable, "Congress must continue to fight for freedom."

Insistence Upon Right to Secede From Empire.

Correspondence connected with the abortive peace negotiations shows that the Nationalist leaders laid down no solution as satisfactory unless it was recognised that India had the right to secede from the British Empire.

One essential was a complete National Government which would be responsible to the people; the Government to control the defence forces.

A claim was made to refer to an independent tribunal such British claims and concessions, including the India public debt, as appeared unjust.

The civil disobedience movement would be called off if the terms proved acceptable to Britain, but the picketing of foreign cloth and liquor shops and the illicit manufacture of salt would continue.

List of Demands.

Other demands were for the release of political prisoners not guilty of violence, the restoration of confiscated property, the refund of fines, reinstatement of village officers who resigned or who were dismissed, and the repeal of all special Ordinances.

It was further demanded that the composition of the Round Table Conference to be held in London and the Indian representation on it should only be decided after the settlement of the foregoing so-called "preliminary" demands.

Viceroy's Reply.

In his reply, the Viceroy of India regretted the tone adopted by the Nationalists and declared

Success Due to Cadets.

New York, Sept. 7. A message from Buenos Aires states that although practically all the troops in the Buenos Aires garrison were involved in the revolution, its success was mainly due to the participation of 1,400 cadets from the military college, who were the first to answer to the call when the rebel aeroplane signalled that the moment for the revolution had come.

Many of the cadets arrived on the scene in private motor-cars belonging to wealthy families.

Eight regiments stationed at Campo Mayo were expected to form the bulk of the invading forces, but they declined to participate.

Many police as well as civilians joined the insurgents.

The capital held demonstrations throughout the night, to celebrate the fall of the Government.

RENDITION OF WEIHAIWEI.

ANGLO-CHINESE DISCUSSION TO-DAY.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

NANKING, Sept. 7. It is officially announced that the rendition of Weihaiwei will take place on October 1 in accordance with the terms of the Sino-British Agreement.

Sir Miles Lampson is due to arrive at Nanking on the 8th inst., when he will resume the discussions with Dr. C. T. Wang regarding the abolition of extra-territoriality and other Sino-British issues.

(Wah Tsz Yat Pao.)

SHANGHAI, Sept. 7. Dr. C. T. Wang, the Minister of Foreign Affairs, proceeded to Hangchow yesterday and will be back here to-day.

In a statement, Dr. Wang said that Sir Miles Lampson, the British Minister, is expected at Nanking on Monday to discuss with him the issue of the rendition of Weihaiwei and the Concession at Amoy.

The Government, said Dr. Wang, will take over the control of Weihaiwei on October 1, and no postponement will be made.

that no useful purpose would be served by attempting to deal with the suggestions in detail, as the proposals were impossible.

The Viceroy added that if the civil disobedience movement was called off the special Ordinances would be withdrawn.

What Home Press Think.

LONDON, Sept. 6. The Indian peace talks form the main item displayed by the morning papers, many of which already devote leaders to the subject.

Success Still Secure.

The Daily Herald believes that "with wisdom on both sides success is still secure," and urges the British Government to make it plain that the Round Table Conference is summoned to arrange with essential temporary safeguards for the self-governing of India.

It also urges that the conference shall not be confined within the frontiers of the Simon report.

The journal suggests that Congress on that promise and on the condition that political prisoners be amnestied "call off the civil disobedience campaign, and participate in the conference."

"Thunderer's" Tribute to Delegates.

The Times says that in the letter to their Viceroy the three prisoners laid down conditions which would be more appropriately imposed by leaders of a partially successful military revolution. They demanded the Government's complete surrender.

Tribute is paid by the Times to the patriotic efforts of Sapru and Jayakar, and the Government of India, it is added, was fully justified in assisting them to the utmost.

"It is desirable that Congress should be represented at the Round Table Conference, but the presence of their delegates is not indispensable. The Government and its co-operators can continue their preparations for meetings in London with a clear conscience," it added.

Govern India and Restore Order.

"The Morning Post" hopes that the Government, "having proved by sad experience the futility of these proceedings, will turn to their real business, which is to govern India and to restore order."

"We Must Govern Or Go."

The Daily Mail says that "in India we must govern or go, and we do not intend to go in spite of Lord Irwin and his friends."

Secession Not An Open Question.

POONA, Sept. 6. In the course of the peace negotiations, the Viceroy, Lord Irwin, intimated that if the question of secession was raised the Indian Government would be unable to treat it as an open question.

[BRITISH WIRELESS SERVICE.] Congress Leaders' Proposals Impossible.

RUGBY, Sept. 8. The failure of the unofficial efforts of the Moderate Hindu leaders to restore peaceful conditions and a cessation of the civil disobedience campaign in India prior to the meeting of the Round Table Conference issued by the Hindu mediators, Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru and Mr. Jayakar.

The failure is due to the over-reaching demands by the Congress leaders, which include the right to secede from the Empire, National Government, full economic control, and the control of India's defence.

The Viceroy, Lord Irwin, informed the intermediaries that a discussion of such proposals was impossible, and he commented upon the black refusal of the Nationalist leaders to recognise the grave injury being done to India by the civil disobedience movement.

"REDS" WITHDRAW FROM CHANGSHA.

REPULSED WITH HEAVY LOSS.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

The inhabitants of Changsha are once again breathing freely following the withdrawal of the Communists, on Friday.

According to Chinese wireless reports from Hankow, the Communists made a series of futile attempts to occupy the city last week but a stiff defence was put up by the defenders, who counter-attacked and repulsed them. The encounters were desperate and casualties on both sides were well over 2,000. Fighting aeroplanes from Hankow played an important role.

General Chen Kang Chung, commanding the Hunan troops, reported that Chu Tak, one of the "Red" leaders, was seriously wounded and succumbed to his wounds later. The report, however, remains to be verified.

The Communists are retreating in the direction of Liuyang and Liling, and the Nanking forces are advancing in pursuit.

Heavy troops are now quartered at Changsha. Siangtan, to the south of Changsha, is still under martial law, as a section of the Communists are threatening the city. Quite a number of market places in the vicinity of Siangtan have been burnt down by the Communists.

A telegram received by the foreign legations at Peiping from the consular body at Changsha, corroborates the report that the Communists have been repulsed. The telegram adds that there were heavy casualties among the Communists.

NANKING PREPARES FOR GENERAL OFFENSIVE.

The Peiping-Hankow Railway will be the most important point in the campaign in the North. Since the re-capture of Tsinan, the Nanking troops have directed the attention to this sector, and preparations are under way for a general offensive.

Eight bombing aeroplanes have left Nanking for this front while the 3rd Training Division has also left Hankow for this sector. Chiang Kai Shek is reported to have arrived at Yencheng by aeroplane on the 5th inst. to make arrangements for a general offensive.

The Times, commenting on the correspondence, says it is clear that any tendency on the part of Gandhi to compromise was overcome by the Nehrus, father and son, and adds: "It is quite unjustifiable to assume that the refusal of the Congress Party to attend the Round Table Conference except on terms which no self-respecting Government could accept will wreck the conference. Local and well organized as is the Congress Party, it is no more than a party lacking in cohesion, and united only in opposition to the Government, which has so far given no evidence of constructive ability beyond a scheme for a constitution which all Indian minorities have rejected. All other sections of British and Indian opinion will be represented at the conference in London, and it should be remembered that in its essentials there is no great difference in principle between the demands of the Moderate Hindu Parties and those of the Congress Party. It was desirable that Congress should be represented, but the presence of their delegates is not indispensable, and the Government and its co-operators can continue their preparations for the meetings in London with a clear conscience."

BOMB EXPLOSIONS AT INDIAN STATIONS.

PERPETRATORS SENTENCED TO SEVEN YEARS EACH.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

BOMBAY, Sept. 5. Sirs Juddin and Abdul Rama have been sentenced to seven years' imprisonment each in connection with the bomb explosions at Byculla and Masjid stations.

Both explosions occurred in April this year on the Great Indian Peninsula Railway.

They occurred within half an hour of each other and resulted in two casualties.

The first explosion took place on a train and the second in the third-class waiting room at Byculla.

No political significance was attached to the explosions at the time, the bombs being of crude manufacture.

NATIONALIST SPY EXECUTED.

FOREIGNERS INVOLVED IN PECULIAR AFFAIR.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

PEIPING, Sept. 6. A communique from Kaifeng states that Ting Tao Li, the Special Commissioner in Western Honan appointed by Marshal Chiang Kai Shek to create disturbances in the rear of the allies, together with four accomplices, was caught and shot at Chengchow.

Ting Tao Li was formerly on the Faculty of the Whampoa Academy. Large sums of money were also seized.

Two foreigners, said to be connected with a certain missionary station in Honan, were also involved, although no definite proof has yet been found.

People Enjoy Bursting Shrapnel.

Chengchow has again been visited by Nanking aeroplanes during the past three days. The people are now getting more skillful in protecting themselves from the planes and seem to enjoy the sight of bursting shrapnel.

Origin of Aeroplanes.

The bombs are killing and wounding innocent people and are achieving nothing of military importance. An examination of the brass plates from 33 aeroplanes destroyed by the allies shows that over 80 per cent. are from the United States and the remainder from Germany.

Feeling among the people is running high against the countries permitting the sale of these methods of destruction of innocent people.

SALVAGE OF LINER EGYPT CONTINUES.

CAPTAIN'S SAFE BROUGHT TO SURFACE.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

BREST, Sept. 5. The salvage operations on the P. & O. liner Egypt are being pushed on most vigorously in order to profit from the spell of fine weather.

The bulion, which is the main object of the expedition, is contained in several hundred padlocked boxes deep down in the hull, and is inaccessible without dynamiting part of the interior.

The three divers engaged on the work are hampered by the intense darkness and the disconcerting effects of hundreds of conger eels continually brushing against them.

One of the divers yesterday, while inspecting the Captain's safe, was suddenly shot up to the surface, the leads attached to his shoes having been displaced. However, the Captain's safe was hauled up to-day.

The divers working on the sunken P. & O. liner Egypt will be unable to reach the strong-room this year, as the tides hamper operations.

Salvaging Temporarily Abandoned.

BREST, Sept. 7. The Artiglio has temporarily abandoned the salvaging of the Egypt.

The weather conditions prevent diving operations, and the Artiglio is returning to Brest, but will resume as soon as the weather permits.

LAWN BOWLS INTERPORT.

HONG KONG WIN THE SECOND MATCH BY BRILLIANT PLAY.

DECIDING MATCH TO BE PLAYED TO-DAY.

Hong Kong's representatives in the lawn bowls Interport showed their capabilities by winning the second match, necessitating the playing of the "rubber," which is fixed for to-day. Reports of the week-end games by Reuter and our own correspondent are given below, which are full of praise for the Hong Kong skip.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

SHANGHAI, Sept. 7. Shanghai won the first Interport lawn bowls match against Hong Kong by 23 points to 17 yesterday. In the early stage the play was close with Shanghai holding the advantage by a few points. They were leading by four shots after thirteen heads, when Hong Kong took the next with four shots to make matters even.

Luz was heartily applauded for his good play when he was faced with difficult positions, particularly in the second head. Shanghai were then lying the second wood, but Luz was instrumental in removing it with his last delivery to count five shots for his side.

Sequeira and Munro played a good game for Shanghai, while Campbell appeared to be always steady in his play.

Shanghai v. Hankow.

Shanghai beat Hankow by 25 shots to 13. The greens were heavy after the recent rains and this had the effect of upsetting the play of the visitors. The following are the detailed scores—

Victory for Hong Kong.

Hong Kong levelled the position in the second match of the series to-day, which was remarkable for some brilliant play by Luz, skip of the visiting side. They won by five shots.

The weather was fine and the ground conditions suited the Hong Kong players better than on Saturday when the greens were heavy.

On the day's play Hong Kong proved to be the better side and their bowling was consistent.

The final will be played to-morrow (Monday).

SHANGHAI, Sept. 6.

Shanghai defeated Hong Kong by 23 points to 17 in the first Interport lawn bowls match played to-day.

Conditions were bad, the greens being heavy, and play was interrupted by rain.

Shanghai were consistent throughout, with Sequeira the outstanding player. On the other hand Hong Kong were patchy. They scored five on the second head, which was the only time they were in the lead.

At the half-way stage Shanghai were leading by 12 to 9, but at the fourteenth head the scores were level, 14-14. Shanghai then took the lead to win by six shots.

The teams were—Shanghai: J. Munro, C. Sequeira, A. J. Hall and G. L. Campbell. Hong Kong: C. Atkinson, F. C. Goodman, C. G. Silva and R. F. Luz (Skip).

In the match with Hankow, Shanghai won by 25 points to 13. Hankow played well for the first ten heads, and then went to pieces.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 7.

In the second Interport match to-day, Hong Kong beat Shanghai by 20 points to 15.

The teams were—Hong Kong: C. Atkinson, G. McLeod, F. C. Goodman and R. F. Luz (Skip). Shanghai: A. McLeod, W. Turnbull, R. P. Phillips and A. A. Malcolm (Skip).

Hong Kong led 7-2 on the seventh end and 13-6 on the thirteenth. In the next end Malcolm came with a heavy wood and took out Hong Kong, who were then lying four woods, to score seven and tie the score, 13-13.

Hong Kong regained the lead in the next end and never lost it.

On the whole Hong Kong played the better game, particularly Luz, who was magnificent. Shanghai, on the other hand, played a patchy game, Skip Malcolm having too much to do.

Hankow v. Shanghai.

Hankow beat Shanghai by 18 points to 17 after a ding-dong struggle.

AUSTRALIANS DRAW WITH ENGLISH TEAM.

STRONG BATTING ON BOTH SIDES.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, Sept. 6.

The match between the South of England team and the Australian cricketers at Folkestone was drawn. England declared at 403 for 8 wickets, and the visitors scored 432, three of their batsmen, including Bradman, making useful contributions to the total. The position at the end of the last day's play was as follows—

South of England, 1st innings (8 wickets, declared) ..... 403
Hammond, 54.
Wyatt, 51.
Ames, 121.
Tate, 50.
Australians, 1st innings ..... 432
Bradman, 78.
Ponsford, 63.
Jackson, 78.
a Beckett, 53.
South of England, 2nd innings (1 wicket) ..... 40
Australians in London.

In the two-day match in London between the Club Cricket Conference and the Australians, the visitors batted first and were all out for 278. The Club had lost two wickets for 13 runs at the end of the day's play. The scores were—

Australians, 1st innings ..... 278
Bradman, 70.
Kippax, 63.
Woodfull, 69.
Brindley, 5 for 71.
Nazzer Ali, 1 for 22.
Club, 1st innings (2 wickets) 13

There were only three starters here: Wan Kwong Ting, Wong Ki Chow and Foraita. The first named, who is a "crack" breast-stroke swimmer, won, but he nearly fell a victim to the trap laid by the other two, who preferred to make the race over 25 yards instead of over 100. Consequently the first three lengths was a game of patience between the three and Wan Kwong Ting had no difficulty in keeping abreast of his rivals. On turning for the last lap, however, he failed to draw away from the others although he had by then been quickened his stroke. There was no mystery about this because the first three lengths were covered in, respectively, 21 seconds, 22 seconds, and 23 seconds, so that all three had plenty of energy left. Wan had a few yards from home and won by a second from Foraita. The winner covered the last lap in 19 seconds! He appeared surprised when the time was announced, but he must have realised that it was one of the easiest championships he had ever won.

100 Yards Ladies' Championship.

Miss Enid Saul led right through, being accompanied over the first two lengths by Miss E. Allen, who, however, could not keep up the pace over the last two lengths. Miss Doris Hunt was third a good way behind; Miss M. George gave up after the second lap.

THRILLS AT V.R.C.

GITTENS AND LAWRENCE DEAD HEAT.

CHAMPIONS DEFEATED IN WATER POLO.

[By "WATERMAN."] H.E. the Governor, Sir William Peel, K.B.E., C.M.G., and Lady Peel were amongst a large and interested crowd of spectators at the V.R.C. night fête on Saturday. The place was full to capacity and this was in a large measure due to the fact that no less than four championship races were to be decided. Moreover, Kowloon Swimming Club had a strong team to represent them in a water polo game against the invincible V.R.C. and this proved to be an exceptionally good drawing card for Kowloonites.

Those who went obtained their money's worth from the thrills provided, and from a spectator's point of view a distinct success was the result of the night's sport. Looking closer at the results however, one finds that the times were by no means good, but this did not in any way interfere with anyone's enjoyment.

The new champions are as follows—

100 yards free style.—S. V. Gittens and W. Lawrence—01 seconds.

100 yards breast stroke.—Wan Kwong Ting—82 seconds.

100 yards Ladies.—Miss Enid Scull—84.3-5 seconds.

100 yards Boys.—R. B. Wood—78.45 seconds.

100 Yards Free Style.

There were four starters here. W. Lawrence, who in the heats accounted for B. Amery to the closest of margins possible, started favourite. Amery was confidently expected to put up a great race as he had accounted for Gittens in the heats. The last named was also in the final but few thought he could do anything surprising in view of his poor show in the heat. Paget who also won his heat against one of the best Chinese swimmers—Leung Sui Man, was looked upon as likely to create a surprise.

Before the race, both Amery and Lawrence, who figured in a close finish in the heats, looked anxious and worried. Paget was indifferent and Gittens gave me the impression that he did not care tuppence who won the race—he himself was out to do his best.

Over the first length Lawrence showed the way slightly in front of Gittens with Paget close up. Amery preferred to reserve his energy till later on. At the first turn Lawrence was about a foot ahead of Gittens and Paget, with Amery about two feet further behind. The second lap found Paget gaining on Lawrence. Gittens also put on a spurt but Amery still kept his effort over till later on. At the second turn Lawrence was only a matter of inches in front of Paget and Gittens, with Amery a whole yard behind.

The third length was the most thrilling of all and here it was that Gittens surprised those in the know. He not only drew level with Lawrence but actually passed him and was first to touch the wall on turning the last lap. Lawrence was only a few inches behind, however, and the two turned almost together. Amery had closed up on Paget who was fast losing ground.

The last lap, swum amidst deafening cheers, saw Gittens drawing away from Lawrence. It looked all over for Lawrence, but about half way home he put on an extra spurt and slowly, but steadily, drew up on Gittens. The last few yards of the race was the most thrilling of all. Gittens was still in front but he mistimed his very last stroke to allow Lawrence to get "there" absolutely simultaneously with him. Amery was third, two yards behind and Paget was a very good fourth.

100 Yards Breast-Stroke.

There were only three starters here: Wan Kwong Ting, Wong Ki Chow and Foraita. The first named, who is a "crack" breast-stroke swimmer, won, but he nearly fell a victim to the trap laid by the other two, who preferred to make the race over 25 yards instead of over 100. Consequently the first three lengths was a game of patience between the three and Wan Kwong Ting had no difficulty in keeping abreast of his rivals. On turning for the last lap, however, he failed to draw away from the others although he had by then been quickened his stroke. There was no mystery about this because the first three lengths were covered in, respectively, 21 seconds, 22 seconds, and 23 seconds, so that all three had plenty of energy left. ## LOCAL FOOTBALL.

ARGYLLS PROGRESS WELL.

Playing in a friendly game on the Garrison ground at Sookanpoo, the Somerset L.I. defeated the Highlanders by four goals to two.

This is the first appearance of the Argyls in local soccer and they gave a good showing against one of the Colony's best teams.

Their progress throughout the coming season will be watched with interest and on their showing in Saturday's game they should do well during the coming season.

The S.L.I. soon got off the mark but the Argyls' defence proved a sound one. The opening twenty minutes was a ding-dong struggle, the pace being very fast. The S.L.I. then took the lead, following good wing play by Butcher who sent in a fast shot which the goalie managed to push out, but Knapp, being on the alert, sent in a return which gave the goalie no chance.

A visit by the Argyls was cleared by Hayward, and Butcher ended another fine run down the wing with a shot that the goalie cleared with difficulty. Rayson returned with a fast shot before the goalie could recover and the ball crossed the line giving the S.L.I. a two-goals lead.

A fine shot from the Argyls' right wing had Hall guessing but he had plenty of time to clear. The interval arrived with the S.L.I. leading by two clear goals.

The second half opened with a spirited attack by the visitors, but chances were thrown away by bad shooting. On two occasions the inside men were through but shot wide from close range. Rayson ended a run down the right with a shot that the goalie cleared, but Early returned with a fast shot, the goalie just touching the ball on its way to the net.

Being three down the Argyls rallied and almost drew level. McKim beat Hall with a fast shot, the ball entering the net through the goalkeeper's legs, and Hay reduced the lead with a fast rising shot that left Hall helpless. Coming again to get the equaliser, the Argyls missed by inches only, the ball being shot wide from close range. Several corners fell to the S.L.I. and from one Early headed into the net from a well placed kick by Butcher.

Result:—Somerset L.I. 4; A. and S. Highlanders, 2.

Q.M.S. Scott, R.T., had charge of the game.

100 Yards Boys' Championship.

R. B. Wood was outstandingly the best swimmer in this event. He swam beautifully to established a lead which came in handy over the remainder of the race as he tired fast and lost ground rapidly. He was, however, a good three yards in front of Anslow at the close. The latter accounted for Rumjahn by a touch.

Water Polo.

V.R.C. went under to the Kowloon Swimming Club in an exhibition game. The latter team was reinforced by the inclusion of B. Rasmussen, who, together with Simpson and Kerr, formed a very strong forward line. The other members of the Kowloon team were Raiton (centre half) and Angus (goal). The home team played with Knight (goal),

GORDON BENNETT RACE STARTED.

SIX BALLOONS ENTERED.

[UNITED PRESS.]

Cleveland, September 1.—Six balloons were ready to-day to start in the finals of the nineteenth annual distance race for the Gordon Bennett Trophy.

They included three foreign entries—the Belgians of Belgium, the Barmen of Germany and the Pierre Fishback of France.

The other balloons were the City of Detroit, to be piloted by Edward Hill, the Goodyear VIII, to be piloted by W. T. Van Orman, and the City of Cleveland, to be piloted by Roland Blair.

Last year's race started from St.
Louis and the Goodyear VIII, piloted by Mr. Van Orman, is the case this year, with Alan Mac-Cracken as his aide, won with a distance of 341 miles. The world distance record is 1,896 miles, made in 1914.

The balloons are waited to and fro by various wind currents, and a considerable measure of skill is required in regulating the altitude of the balloons, under varying degrees of buoyancy at different times of day and night, so as to catch the most favorable breezes.

Preparations have been made to "cover" the progress of the various balloons by telegraphic and telephonic signals from various parts of the country. The craft will probably scatter soon after rising, and since none carries the weighty apparatus required for radio transmission, their locations are ascertained only by bulletins sent from observers at various points.

The balloons are conspicuously marked in order to render recognition easy.

Aerial relay races, glider contests, parachute jumping and various other aeroplane events, are being staged as a feature of the race.

[REUTER'S AMERICAN SERVICE.]

New York, Sept. 5.

For the tenth time since 1899, Great Britain and the United States are sending their foremost riders galloping into action to-day for the International West Chester Cup, the emblem of polo supremacy, and one of the world's classic sports trophies.

The British team were beset by a series of accidents, forcing three "Number One" candidates out of action, and compelling last minute changes which are regarded as materially improving the British chances. These involve sending the famous Anglo-Argentine veteran, Lacey, "Number Two," installing Guinness back "and replacing Lacey, whose brilliant work as "Number Two" greatly encouraged the British players, who are confident of a dashing display. Britain's chances, depend on Roark hitting exceptionally well. American critics were impressed by Guinness' style last Sunday, and his long, hard and accurate stroking.

The Americans at present are 6 to 5 favourites.

The teams are:—
Britain: Gerald Balding; Lewis Lacey (captain); C. T. I. Roark; Humphrey Guinness.

United States: Eric Pedley; Earle Hopping; Tommy Hitchcock; Winston Guest.

America Defeats Britain.

LONG ISLAND, Sept. 6.

The polo match for the West Chester Cup resulted in a win for America, by 10 points to 5.

Meadowbrook ground presented a glorious scene, Society from all nations being assembled to witness the first West Chester Cup match, which included Sir Ronald Lindsay, Lord and Lady Cowdray, Mr. Andrew Mellon, Secretary of State; high officers of the army and navy, and the cream of the American fashionable world.

Hitchcock won the ball from the start and made a short pass, following over the British line. "Foul" was called on Hitchcock. Capt. Roark took a free shot from the 60-yard line and scored beautifully. Pedley followed up with a goal, and immediately afterwards, after he had missed a shot by Guinness, Lacey ran down the field and magnificently scored England's second goal just before the close of the chucker. Roark, after a fine run, just missed, the result of the first chucker being England, 2; America, 1.

Pedley scored from the 80-line from a pass from Hitchcock, but he failed a minute later. Roark made a superb run up the field, passing all the Americans, but just failed to score.

The Americans came within striking distance repeatedly, Guinness riding them off.

Hopping passed from the boards towards, midfield, and Pedley passed off Guinness, and scored America's third goal of the second chucker, the score being 3-2.

Balding scored from a magnificent pass from Lacey. Roark and Lacey played magnificently, but Balding and Guinness lapsed, allowing Hopping to score from Hitchcock's pass in the third chucker, the score being 4-3.

By fast, furious and thrilling horsemanship Guinness put up a wonderful defence. Hopping scored from a scrimmage in the fourth chucker, the score being 5-3.

Amid terrific excitement, Pedley carried the ball the whole length of the field only to fail. Roark missed a pass, and Hopping scored. Lacey pulled off a nearside shot at a critical moment and scored beautifully in the fifth chucker, the score reading America, 6; Britain, 4.

Roark failed from a penalty from forty yards out. Lacey twice saved goals. Hitchcock scored from Hopping's fine pass. Hitchcock pursued Roark in a most thrilling ride down the field, in which Roark completely outgeneraled him, and scoring in masterly style in the sixth chucker, the score being 7-5.

Hopping scored from Hitchcock's pass, narrowly missing a few moments later. Pedley and Hitchcock rode off Roark. Balding and Roark's fine passing ended by the ball hitting Pedley. The seventh chucker ended in America securing 8 points to 6.

Hitchcock's skillful play took the ball from the boards to score. Hitchcock rode down Guinness and shot. Pedley scored from skilful passing, and Lacey, after beating all his opponents, failed by inches. Balding subsequently missed a splendid chance.

The final result was America, 10; Britain, 6.

HONG KONG TRADE.

PIECE-GOODS ACTIVITY CONTINUES.

The fortnightly report issued by the Hong Kong General Chamber of Commerce contains the following:—

Cotton Piece Goods and Fancy
Cotton Goods.

The following reports have been received: Market activity noted in our last advices has continued but on a more restricted scale. Appreciable quantities of Limbries, Leno X Overs and Indigo Prints have, however, been booked in addition to various sorting up lines of other descriptions of Light Cotton Fancies.

There are fair quantities of Black Cambrics and Coloured Striped Shirtings offering, but dealers and importers have not yet been able to come to terms in respect of price.

Clearances of reasonable goods are improving and present market prices and offtake portend a profitable Autumn season to dealers. Cotton values have fluctuated within narrow limits and were quoted Mid. Am. Spot 650d. Ed. Sakel 10.34d in Liverpool on 4th inst.

Another report states: There has been less activity in Spring Fancies and the bulk of the business has now probably been settled on these lines. Some transactions in Coloured Striped Popping and other miscellaneous fancies are reported and there is still a fair amount of enquiry about. Clearances have shown a slight improvement and can be considered satisfactory for the time of the year. Manchester prices remain easy and slight concessions can usually be obtained. Manufacturers, however, declare they are accepting orders below cost and they must come to a halt if conditions do not improve.

Woolens.

The small demand for Union Gabardines and Palm Beach cloths appears to have been satisfied and there is no new business to report. Clearances of woolens have been slightly better and this season's Winter cargo is now arriving. Market prices for most woolens are fairly good and dealers anticipate satisfactory returns on the new goods.

FASCIST RIOTS IN BERLIN.

DISSATISFACTION WITH LEADERS.

Berlin, September 1.—The long smouldering dissatisfaction with the Fascist leaders amongst the rank and file of the movement flared up into open hostilities to-day when the rebels forced their entry into the local headquarters which they totally demolished. The five guardians who attempted to stem the rush were badly manhandled. Finally the police appeared upon the scene and arrested 25 of the rebels. It is reported that the leader of the Fascists, Adolf Hitler, had arrived here to-day from Munich in an attempt to patch up the differences between the hostile factions of the party as a further spread of the dissatisfaction might become fatal to the Fascist movement in the forthcoming general elections.

U.S. FEDERAL RESERVE BOARD.

[REUTER'S AMERICAN SERVICE.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.

Mr. Eugene Meyer, of New York, has been appointed Governor of the Federal Reserve Board in succession to Mr. Roy Young.

LITTLE ENTENTE AND FEDERATION.INTEREST IN THE NEXT
LEAGUE SESSION.

Bucharest, September 1.—The forthcoming meeting of the Assembly of the League of Nations has roused lively interest in diplomatic circles throughout Europe but particularly in the Little Entente. Most of the Ministers for Foreign Affairs are preparing to leave for Geneva and are making declarations to the Press on the League Programme which greatly interests the small European States upon whose future the League of Nations and the Briand Scheme cannot but have the greatest possible influence.

No little sensation has been provoked in the newspapers of the principal capitals by the declaration attributed to Mr. Mironesco, the Rumanian Minister for Foreign Affairs. According to this, the statesman expresses scepticism as to the fate reserved by the politicians of Geneva for Mr. Briand's project, having in mind the present atmosphere in Europe which gives no indication whatever of a federal unity.

Replying to articles provoked by these declarations Mr. Mironesco, officially denies them. He contented himself by saying that he did not know whether the scheme for the United States of Europe was or was not on the Assembly programme. Similar polemics are symptomatic of the importance which public opinion attaches to the debates which are to take place on the subject of European Unity.
